*Both houses approve Osmond's fire protection legislation

Next stop: Gov. Blagojevich

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Fire protection legislation cosponsored by Rep. JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch) has made its way through both houses and will be sent to Gov. Rod Blagojevich for final consideration.

"These measures reflect the important roles our firefighters play in our everyday lives," said Osmond, a member of the Appropriations* Public Safety Committee. "I will, in the months and years ahead, push for additional legislation designed to facilitate fire protection and other public safety measures."

Five house bills all benefit fire departments and fire protection districts. From assistance with purchasing new equipment to imposing . fines on those who continually and falsely pull fire alarms, the new laws are intended to better protect the

The loan funds offered through one of these will be paid out of a newly created Fire Truck Revolving Loan Fund and will allow for zerointerest loans through the Illinois Rural Bond Bank for the purchase of capital improvement projects.

"This will really help the small departments that wouldn't be able to handle short term loans with interest," sald Osmond.

Loans would not exceed $250,000 for any department or district, and could be carried for a maximum of 20 years.

Osmond said that the issuing of mandates combined with a "listless economy" have led fire departments and fire protection districts to cut already-slim budgets.

It is important that we recognize and honor our fire department heros for putting their lives on the line each and every time they respond to a call for help.'

JoAnn Osmond

"In order for our firefighters to perform their jobs adequately and effectively, it is important for them to have the necessary and up-to-date equipment available," she said. "This measure serves as a shining testament to the important roles these individuals play in our everyday lives."

Osmond said she and her task force colleagues observed that departments and districts with better equipment and superior training have lower insurance ratings. "This also saves a significant amount of money," she

Other measures will subject those who repeatedly cause false fire alarms to civil penalties determined by the appropriate fire protection district's board of trustees. Osmond added, "This will help ensure that adequate fire-fighting equipment will be available for legitimate emergencies."

Awareness programs will be established to ensure departments and districts are aware of what purchases are tax-exempt as well as how to claim the exemption. An equipment exchange program will be established by the state fire marshal to allow equipment to be donated between departments and districts.

Finally, traffic control signal preemption devices will be further regulated to ensure they are used for their intended purposes. Fines of $1-5,000 may be

"It is important that we recognize and honor our fire department heroes for putting their lives on the line each and every time they respond to a call for help," said Osmond.

"They continually go above and beyond the call of duty to protect and ensure the public's safety."

*Wal-Mart close to breaking ground

Planning and zoning board approves final plat

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

With the final plat approved by the combined planning and zoning board, Wal-Mart is well on its way to becoming a reality.

Bob Silhan, director of planning and zoning for the Village of Antioch said, "Staff recommended approval as this plan is in substantial conformance with the preliminary plan."

The board approved the measure 5-0 with one absent and the matter will move to the village board. "It should be on the agenda for June 2," said Silhan.

He added the developer hopes to break ground on the super center of 203,000 square feet at the end of July.

"I think this very optimistic," Silhan said. "They have bids to go out. I expect that it will take somewhat longer than that."

Additionally, at a previous village board meeting and in response to a question asked by Trustee Barbara Porch, Silhan said the developer would not be able to break ground until all of the necessary permits are in place.

This phase, the first of the project, will be built on 29.39 acres at the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Route 173. There will be an additional 7.3 acres where the water retention ponds will sit. This acreage has been rezoned to the new zoning category OS (open space).

Hillcrest first-graders take action to collect $400 in pennies for children in need

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Eight philanthropists, all students of Joyce Kufalk's first grade class at Hillcrest Elementary, have acted on the idea of raising money for homeless children both here in the United States and Irag.

Rosie Attiyeh initially came up with the idea and her friends Abby Coulter, Melissa Nickles and Destiny Rentsch joined the effort to raise as many pennies as possible before the end of school. After giving speeches explaining their interest and intent to all four lunch periods, Samantha Daniels, Megan Morrill, Jackie Quintanilla and Dominique Vacala asked if they could help collect money.

"I got the idea from 'Zoom," said Rosie. "I thought it would be a good idea to do this."

As of May 14, the girls had raised $374.34. They will continue to collect pennies through May 23.

"We hope to earn $500," said Abby. "We get more pennies every day." The girls said they are all friends and like doing things together.

Kufalk said the girls made posters, wrote a speech with the help of one of the district's gifted teachers, Michele Kane, practiced the speech before their class and then made the lunchtime speeches. "The only thing I did was to send a letter home to let the parents know about the penny drive," she said.

Anyone wishing to help the girls meet their goal can bring a donation, pennies or otherwise to the front office of Hillcrest, located at 433 W. Depot.

"I am so proud of these girls," said Kufalk. "This was entirely their idea, they did all the work and gave the speech all on their own. I didn't have anything to do with this. They are only 7 years old, and they are doing things that most of us didn't do until high school."

XVFW honors vets, offers flag education

Memorial Day celebrations focus on the flag

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

This Memorial Day, many of the prayers and presentations by the VFW Post, Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion and the different levels of scouts, both honored veterans who fought to preserve the United States and focused on the flag.

"Honor the heroic dead," said American Legion Chaplain Ron Barron, "It's because of them that our lives are free. Let us not remember them in anguish."

Nick Wilson, a member of Cub Scout Pack 190, recited "In Flander's Fields" by John McCrae that tells about the significance of the poppy. "We are the Dead. Short days ago. We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow. Loved, and were loved, and now we lie in Flander's fields," she said.

Dalton Lukasik, also of Pack 190, recited "Salute to the Flag" while Jack Schneider of Boy Scout Troop 92 recited "I Am Your Flag."

At the request of scouts in his pack, leader Damien Lukasik read the "Flag Folding Ceremony" that second a belief in eternal life; the third in remembrance of the veteran and on through the 12th fold with the "stars are uppermost, reminding us of our national motto 'In God We Trust."

Post Commander-elect Bill Oerly said, "Sometimes even us veterans don't know what each of the folds are for. It's nice to look these. things up and be reminded."

Current Post Commander Glen Rappanos thanked the American Legion for taking the time to put flags out at the tombs of veterans in the Antioch area prior to Memorial Day.

American Legion member explains the significance of each fold. In James Cole said the one exception The first is the symbol of life; the was Hillside Cemetery, as it has one large memorial flag to honor all veterans all year long.

XLittle Miss Antioch turns inventor

Student wins prize for creation

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Little Miss Antioch Reagan Martin had many obligations to fulfill in roll as queen, but none of them included strapping on a tool belt.

Nonetheless, she rose to the challenge and not only entered but took a second-place regional prize in the 2003 Craftsman/NSTA (National Science Teachers Association) Young Inventors Awards Program. She was awarded a $500 savings bond for her effort.

"Two Chicago-area students are among 36 prize-winners nationwide," said Bob Villa in a letter announcing the winners. Reagan was one of them.

More than 8,000 total students competed for a chance at $5,000 in savings bonds, the amount awarded to the 12 national finalists. The 12 second-place regional winners were each awarded a $500 savings bond and the 12 third-place winners each received $250.

The program is designed to introduce students to hand tools and teach the scientific principles of how they operate, as well as to encourage creative thinking and problem solving.

Reagan, a second grade student from WC Petty Elementary School, came up with the idea for a "shower mover." It is described as a "Tshaped pipe, on a straight pipe, slips over the shower head to move the water flow easily."

Now in its seventh year, the program is sponsored by Sears through its Craftsman tool brand.

Mayor signs resolution honoring military personnel

Residents reminded of meaning of Memorial Day

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The resolution proclaimed: "In this fast-paced society we live in, it is easy to lose sight of traditions. Memorial Day is a holiday to honor those who have died for the principles on which this country is built."

It suggested a great honor would be to visit a cemetery where the graves are marked by flags. "A simple thank you would be a gesture of appreciation to those who gave so much."

Those attending the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Village of Antioch observed a moment of silence after the reading of the resolution.

Asked and Answered, the memorial ceremony, took place at the VFW Sequoit Post 4551 in conjunction with the American Legion on Monday, May 26.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Build for soccer

On May 6, Antioch Township, the Village of Antioch, and E2 Inc., met to discuss potential development of park property located off of Depot Street. The full township board, one member of the village board, three consultants from E2 Inc., and one person from the general public were present.

The preliminary concept design includes Realistic scene athletic fields, parking space, a restroom/equipment/concession facility, and a pavilion near one of three ponds located on the site. The athletic fields include: two T-ball fields, two little league fields, one competition baseball field, one competition soccer field, and one competition football field. Further discussion resulted in suggestions to add a tot play area, a few volleyball courts, and some basketball courts.

In addition, it was suggested by the village representative and one member of the township board that the competition soccer field be developed as another football field that also could be used for soccer practice because the current needs of the football leagues takes precedence over soccer needs as Antioch currently does not have a soccer program or soccer fields.

Antioch youth participate in the Lindenhurst/Lake Villa programs, It was stated that perhaps in two to five years this field or other property on the site could be developed as soccer fields. My comment to this was, "If you build it (a soccer field), they will come." I believe we have an opportunity to do something now for those interested in soccer. All athletic programs in Antioch have a need for more space, and it may be difficult to avoid turning kids away in the future due to lack of playing fields and anticipated growth in Antioch. I am concerned that in order to avoid turning away football athletes, we do so at the expense of excluding soccer athletes based on the rationale that since soccer does not exist in Antioch now, it can wait.

If you are interested in the development of a competition soccer field, please contact Antioch Township at 1625 Deep Lake Rd., Antioch. Let us hear your voice, send us a letter or attend our next meeting on June 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Antioch Township Center.

> Wanda Sobczak Antioch Township Trustee

I would like to publicly thank the Antioch. Lake Villa and Lindenhurst Police and Fire Departments, Lake County Coroner's Office and Flight for Life, for their participation in the preprom event held at Antioch Community High School. The reenactment of the accident scene was truly incredible. Each of these professionals took special care in dealing with the student "victims," while keeping the event realistic. The professionalism and commitment that each of these groups displayed was commendable.

I would also like to commend all the S.A.D.D. (Students Against Destructive Decisions) students involved in the production, including those portraying "accident victims." Their parts were not taken lightly. They were portrayed in complete seriousness.

I would especially like to thank Chris Leinhardt of the Antioch Fire Department and Tim Noonan from Antioch Community High School for coordinating this event and the ACHS administration for allowing this event to happen.

Last but not least, I would like to thank Lt. Larry Wysocki for sharing his experiences with the ACHS students. I believe he, along with all the other people involved in this event, made an impact on those students. This is an example of what can be accomplished when local community groups work together for the benefit of our young people.

Teen arrested after hosting kegger By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER

Staff Reporter

Lake Villa Police answering a 911 cell phone call walked in on a teenage beer party that ended with the arrest of four underage Trent R. Domel, 19, hosted the party at his home at 41 Burnett Ave. He was charged with consumption and possession of alcohol by a minor, as well as permitting underage consumption of alcohol.

Three of his guests, Timothy J. Baum, 20, of 18400 122nd St., Bristol, Wis.; Brent L. Lukemeyer, 20, of 36716 Westmoor Ave., Lake Villa and Racheal A. Minucliani, 18, of 1109 Furlong Drive, Lake Villa, were charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor.

Altogether, police estimated there were about 30-40 people at the party, with most, if not all, under 21 years of age.

The police were summoned by a 911 call placed anonymously from a cell phone, asking for immediate help, Police arrived to find 10-12 young people on the front porch of 41 Burnett. They fled when police arrived. According to police, it appeared a fight was going on. Beer bottles and cans were strewn around the lawn and driveway. Malibu lights and beer mugs lay broken on the lawn.

Four cars were parked in the driveway, with more on Burnett, although no on-street parking is allowed.

In the backyard, police found another 12-15 underage partygoers, who scattered as police approached. A half-empty keg of beer was found nearby.

The responding officer ordered those in the house to stay in the livingroom. People present told police those involved in the fighting had left the premises.

Domel demanded to know who let the police enter the house, asserting they had no reason to be there. Police report he showed symptoms of intoxication, such as bloodshot eyes, slurred speech and poor balance. Domel tried to go into the kitchen. Police, concerned about the presence of knives in the room, repeatedly told him to return to the livingroom, and he repeatedly disobeyed them.

During the police investigation of the scene, calls were received complaining of people hiding in the bushes and nearby backyards. Preliminary breath tests were administered to all on the premises. Domel registered .125 BAC. A subsequent Intoxilizer test yielded a result of .100 BAC. Baum registered .064 BAC. Lukemeyer registered .06 BAC, and requested a second

All the alcohol was confiscated. Those charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor were served with notices to appear in Grayslake Branch III court.

Domel was released on a $1,000 I-bond, pending an appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-405, on June 23, at 9 a.m.

Storm earns national berth

The Lake Villa Storm 11-year-old Travelers added to a torrid start of the season, cruising through two weekend tournaments. The Storm captured the championship in the Richmond Invitational Tournament, where they edged the Grayslake Rams, 10-6. Timely hitting, a stingy defense and deep pitching rotation proved to be the keys as the Lake Villa youths sliced through the competition.

In the opening game against the McHenry Hurricanes, the Storm's John Schenning triggered the offensive attack in the very first inning with a home run over the center field fence. Also pacing the Storm at the plate were Tyler Calcese, Cale St. Clair, Ryan Noon and Cam Jerina. On the hill, Alex May and Cam Jerina blanked McHenry through the first half of the game as the Storm surged to a 9-0 lead. Lake Villa held on to that lead for a 13-8 final.

The second game against the Wauconda Rattlers offered more in the way of an offensive explosion as the Storm again shot out to a 9-0 lead. The Storm accounted for eight hits alone in the first inning, led by Jerina, Kyle Bessa and Nick Hibbing. Joey Walsh joined the hit parade when he added a solo home run in the fourth helping the Storm breeze to a 14-4 victory. May and Caleese each held the Rattlers hitless in the game, which was ultimately called because of the 10-run slaughter rule.

The host Richmond Vipers were the next up. Flawless defense, combined with consistent hitting, served to rattle the Vipers as Lake Villa cruised to the 11-1 victory. Ortman, Hibbing, Bessa and Jerina shared pitching honors. Ortman, Kevin Smiley and Sean Humphrey led the offensive assault as each doubled in the 4-run fourth to put Richmond away.

In the championship tilt, Jerina once again keyed the Storm offense as he led off three separate innings, scoring each time. Ortman also scored three runs, going 2-for-2 at the plate. Smiley chipped in a pair of hits and RBI. The defense was again buoyed by excellent glove work and pitching. The Storm committed only one error in the field en route to the title.

Triple Crown Qualifier

A berth to the Triple Crown National Tournament was at stake as the Storm headed to Kenosha for a TCS qualifier. Some stiff Midwestern competition greeted Lake Villa, as well as the stiff Midwestern

Lake Villa kicked off the tourney against the well-respected Waukesha Firebirds. A defensive struggle ensued as hurlers May and St. Clair stymied the Firebird bats through the first four frames. Waukesha pitchers repaid the favor until St. Clair scored on an infield grounder by Ortman. Lake Villa then broke the game open in the fifth when Hibbing belted a run scoring double, followed by a pair of runs. Paul Poirier completed the pitching gem for the Storm in securing a well earned 4-2

Next on the docket for Lake Villa was Genoa City, which jumped in front of the Storm with four runs in the first. That was all they could muster though, as the Storm's May and Hibbing shut the door from there. Scoring at least one run in every inning, the Storm pecked away at the lead and jumped in front to stay in the third. Batting leaders for Lake Villa were Schenning (2-for-3, 2 RBI) and Ortman (RBI double).

The victory earned the Storm a meeting with the Wisconsin Rockhounds. The Storm again used timely hitting, aggressive base running and a stellar performance on the mound from Poirier to bury the Rockhounds, 8-3. The offense was paced by Noon, Schenning and Ortman. All three players were 2-for-3.

Firmly in the driver's seat after the victory, the Storm waited out driving rains in hopes of playing in the championship game. Unfortunately, Mother Nature prevailed. Nevertheless, by virtue of their performance, Lake Villa secured the top seed and an invitation to the Nationals in August. The Storm enters next week's action with a sparkling 14-1 record. Tournament play for Lake Villa is made. possible by, among others, F.E. Moran, Inc., Emerald Transportation, Hello Folks and the Fogcutter Restaurant.

Girls soccer licking its chops

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

Prairie Ridge could be in for a long afternoon, especially if the Antioch girl's soccer team is clicking on all cylinders.

The Lady Sequoits took the first step towards a regional title following its 6-1 victory over Crystal Lake South in the regional semifinals at Prairie Ridge. They will now play the Wolves for the title on Thurs., May 29 at 4 p.m.

Head. coach Charlie Trout likes his team's chances.

"Our morale is pretty good. The girl's are very confident," said the coach, who is enjoying one of his better teams in nine years of coaching, at least when it comes to the overall record. "As long as we distribute the ball, I think we'll be in good shape. We also have to guard against being a step off where marking is concerned."

All-of those ingredients were right on the money against the Tigers in the semis.

Balanced scoring, as it has been all year, was and has been an integral part of the team's success.

Kelsie Morway popped in the hat trick against the Tigers. She also assisted on another score.

Gina Florian has also shown to be another potent scorer this season. She knocked in two goals while dishing out an assist on another against Crystal Lake South.

And then there's Robyn Mortenson, who became the school's single-season assist leader last week. She has 20 to her credit this spring. Mortenson is already the all-time assist leader at Antioch with 45.

She was up to her old tricks against the Tigers, scoring one goal while dishing out two assists.

And if that's not enough, there are of other plenty Sequoits who can both score and dish the ball off.

Lori Knupp had two assists, while Allison Glaser and Amanda Otten each dished out one in the victory over C.L. South.

Otten also played keeper against South, recording three saves.

For the season, Morway leads the team in scoring with 20 goals. Florian has knocked 16 through the posts, while Mortenson had scored 12.

Mortenson leads the way in assists with 22. Morway is right behind with 13, followed by Florian with communicate, these girl's can do some amazing things," said Trout. "They know they can play with any team, any time."

Antioch, which has worrat least 10 games per season since 1996, is currently 15-6-2. They are the second seed in the Machesney Park Harlem sectional. Should they beat Prairie Ridge, they would play the winner of the Rockford-Guilford regional on Sat., May 31 at 7 p.m.

Sequoit baseball out to prove people wrong

By JOHN PHELPS

Sports Editor

It's been a season of growing pains for

The team finished the regular season with a 9-20 mark. Runs were hard to come by at times. The pitching was also suspect at times. "It's just been basic baseball mistakes," said Antioch head coach Paul Petty. "And yes, we haven't gotten a ton of run production."

The guys needed a little momentum, especially with regional play starting this week. The 15th-seeded Sequoits faced 13th seed Round Lake on May 27, a team it lost to 6-4 earlier in the season. The winner of that game advances to the regional semi's Sat., May 31 against top-seeded Crystal Lake Central in the first game of the Grant regional. First pitch is scheduled for 10 a.m. The second game will feature 10th-seed and host Grant taking on seventh-seeded Cary-Grove at 1 p.m. The winners will then meet for the regional crown Mon., June 2 at 4:30 p.m.

As for that momentum-builder, Antioch came-from-behind to defeat Zion-Benton in the final regular season game.

"We were tired of losing. You could say we really needed that," said Petty. "We've been in so many close games. In all of our conference games, we've our run differential is 2.75, so we're right there."

Against the Bees, Antioch trailed 6-4 heading to the bottom of the seventh inning, Nate Hughes led off the frame with a single. Chandler Kent then singled and Tom Callanan followed with a single to score Hughes and cut the lead to 6-5. Nick Severson was walked intentionally to load the bases as Zion was hoping to end the game with a force at any base. It backfired.

Scott Coles, headed to Monmouth College next year, roped a two-run double to score Kent and Callanan with the game-win-

Hughes finished the game 2-for-4 with two singles. Coles was 1-for-3 with the 2-run double, and Mike Fuchs also went 2-for-3 with a single, double and two RBI.

Starting pitcher Drew Dittmer went a solid five innings on the hill before being relived by Kevin Propek. Dittmer fanned two while allowing only two hits and one earned run. However, he was given the hook in the fifth when Zion tied things up at Propeck then came in for the final two frames to pick up the win. He fanned one while allowing three hits.

But now, it's time to throw away all of whatever bad recollections they had and get down to business.

The Sequoits' other singles player, Andrew Nichols, reached the quarterfinals, losing to three-time sectional champion Scott Robinson of Belvidere 6-0, 6-0. Both of Antioch's doubles tandems, Carl Slimp and Nate Pratt and Sam Hagedorn and team points.

Still, Plinske is pleased with his team's performance this spring.

"I couldn't have asked for a better season," said Plinske, whose team finished with a 9-5 record, its second best record in the last eight seasons. "We placed high in a lot of tournaments, including Prairie Ridge, Cary-Grove and our

LIGHTHAN LOCAL

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

ess than five years ago, being farsighted, having a lazy eye, astigmatism and relatively large pupils would exempt one from having vision-improving surgery. Today, one could be considered a good candidate even with this complicated mixed bag of problems.

LASIK stands for laser in-situ (Latin for in place or not removed) keratomileusis (carving of the comea to reshape it).

Advancements in technology over the past couple of years have opened the doors for many who previously would not have been eligible.

Now there is patented, and FDA approved, laser radar eyetracking equipment that can track the position of the eye 4,000 times per second and works in conjunction with a small spot laser beam. The result is that most of those who are nearsighted, nearsighted with astigmatism, farsighted, farsighted with astigmatism as well as those with both regular and mixed astigmatism can be treated.

Mitchell Jackson, M.D., a board-certified ophthalmologist specializing in a variety of refractive surgeries including LASIK, PRK (photorefractive keratectomy), lens implants, Wavefront Custom Cornea laser applications among others, said, "The technology allows for a smoother ablation (removal) profile."

He said a fair analogy would be the comparison of high-resolution digital image versus a low-resolution image. The edge of high-resolution will have more dots or lines per inch and less of a stair-stepping affect at the edges of the image. A low-resolution image, having fewer dots or lines per inch, will appear jagged.

"We also have better ways to measure pupil size now," he said. "Problems arise when the pupil dilates beyond the treatment area. We match the treatment area to the pupil size under the most extreme circumstance. This takes care of that."

While more people are eligible for LASIK surgery, having it does not mean that one will be able to see perfectly in all situations. "The correction you get with surgery will only be as good as what you can get with the use of glasses or contact lenses," said Jackson. "Additionally, vision is corrected for distance. Reading glasses may still be required."

The eyes have it

"A look inside LASIK eye surgery"

An exception to that is for those who request a monovision result in which the eyes are treated separately and will no longer work together. In those cases, one eye is correct for distance and the other for near vision. The advantage is that one may not need reading glasses (except for the small print).

The disadvantages are that distance vision may not be as clear, depth perception may be effected and glasses may be required for night driving.

Jackson noted that there is a difference between "quantity" of vision and "quality" of vision. One can still be considered to have 20/20 vision when looking at the standard Snellen eye chart, though every letter may appear blurred.

chart, though every letter may appear blurred.

The blurring is caused by "higher order aberrations," that cause glare, shadows, halos or other annoyances.

According to Jackson, improved technology called "wavefront" technology allows some of these higher aberrations to be identified, measured and addressed.

Screening, surgery

Prior to surgery, there is an extensive screening procedure to determine eligibility. During that exam, the overall eye will be evaluated for ocular health and the shape and thickness of the comea will be checked as well as a retinal exam, a test of internal refraction and tear production. This step in the process takes between 60-90 minutes, much longer than the actual surgery.

Jackson stressed that it is important to find a surgeon/optometrist team that will not take any shortcuts in testing. "There should be no shortcuts here," he said. "Each of these tests provides vital information."

He added that one should interview surgeons and not base selection on price. The FDA's web site concurs.

The FDA's site said it is important to be wary of any centers that guarantee results or offer package deals and to read any and all patient information handbooks provided by the doctor. Additionally it said, "Your doctor should be willing to discuss his/her outcomes (successes as well as complications) compared to the results of studies outlined in the handbook."

In addition to checking the FDA web site, Jackson said one should interview the surgeon. He recommended the following questions: How many procedures (whatever specific eye surgery one is looking to have done) have you performed? Are you involved in training other surgeons? If so, how many? Do other doctors, particularly ophthalmologists, come to you? Have you had your own eyes done?

"An eye surgeon, unless he has perfect vision or isn't a candidate, should trust the technology," said Jackson. "I had my eyes done and it was like I was let out of prison. These days, you're more likely to leave your house and have an accident in your car than you are to have a complication from the surgery."

Potential risks include loss of vision from infection or irregular scarring or from the cornea healing irregularly. An astigmatism could result or an inability to wear contact lenses.

Visual side effects could occur including a difference of Additional surgery may be required to fine tune results.

Other reported complications include corneal ulcer formation, droopy eyelid, endothelial cell loss, epithelial healing defects, corneal swelling, retinal detachment and hemorrhage.

Complications could require a corneal replacement.

Jackson, who has performed 8-9,000 laser vision correction surgeries since FDA approval in 1995, said complications from the surgery are not common.

The surgery itself is a two-stage process. The first part of the process is to cut a flap in the eye that exposes the cornea then the cornea is corrected with the laser. According to Jackson, the laser is cool and does not "burn" the tissue away.

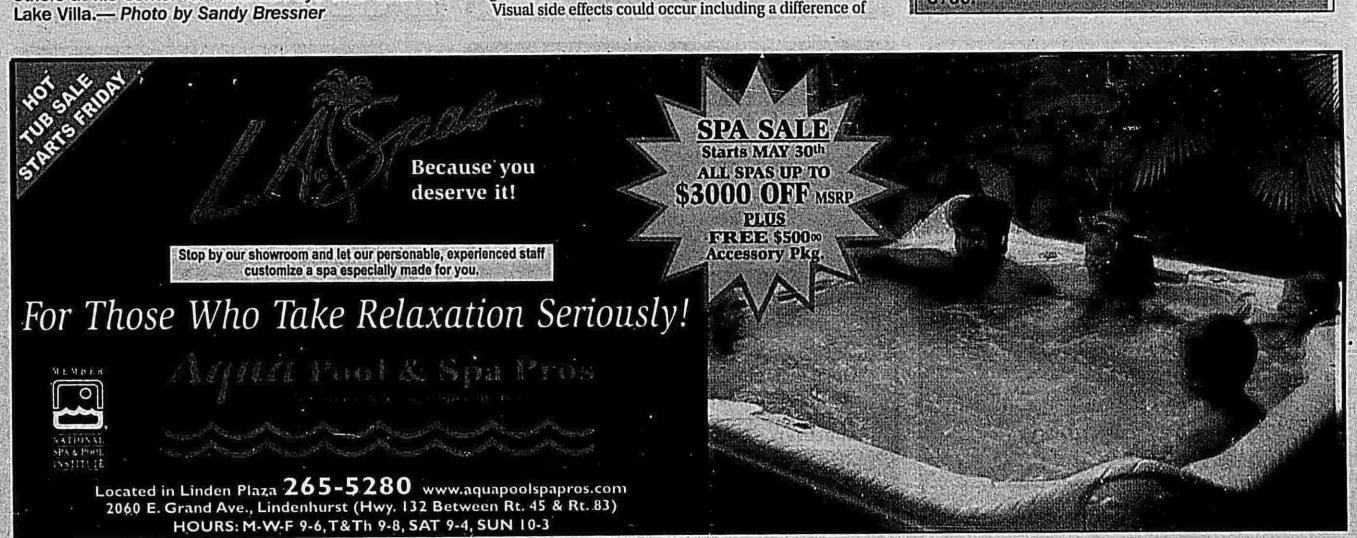

In explaining the process, Lehr said anesthetic eye drops are put in the eye and the patient may be given a mild sedative. "We have an instrument that holds the eyelid open, so you don't have to worry about not blinking," he said.

He added that the flap would heal without stitches, but

He added that the flap would heal without stitches, but that it is important not to rub, push or squeeze the eye as the flap could shift. After the surgery, one might have itching or tearing for a day or two, and that those who are farsighted are more likely to have dry eyes that require lubricating drops.

"You would need to have someone drive you home, and we recommend taking a nap for three or four hours," he said. "By the next day, it's likely that you could drive yourself in for the follow-up exam, but you should have a driver available."

When nature calls, lock the door hadn't even opened my eyes yet, but I knew it wasn't going to be pretty. Yep, spring has arrived. I'd be content just listening to songbirds; but our cat PJ likes to treat me to another sign of the season—dead mice dangled tantalizingly close to my face!

For some reason, the warmer months turn our house into a prime breeding ground for the four-legged set. Still, we make a valiant effort to remain civilized around here, even while deer defoliate the shrubs, raccoons plunder the garbage, chipmunks gnaw through the flashing, and groundhogs burrow under our foundation.

This year I've REALLY tempted the fates by agreeing to host a "Ladies Tea" next week. I knew I was in trouble as soon as I mailed the invitations out. The RSVP's have been rolling in. It seems like we're being solicited by every pest control company within a forty-mile radius of our house.

You'd think I'd know better. Perhaps the word got out from a former dinner guest. All was going well at my little gathering until PJ caught her eye, "My, that toy mouse of his looks so real, it could be alive!" Of course, I can always count on my daughter to use discretion, "Yeah, Mom tried to kill THAT one with a broom last night!"

I'm starting to panic. Wagon trails of ants are rolling through my kitchen like prospectors headed for the Gold Rush. They must know instinctively that I'm a total zero as the Exterminator—at least intentionally.

God help me, last night our feline serial killer left another mouse carcass at our locked bedroom door. And what WERE those footsteps on the roof? You can bet it wasn't Santa Claus! With my luck, mother raccoon has returned to our attic just in time to set up housekeeping for the social season.

Last time raccoons visited, I could have offered visitors all the hospitality of a crime scene. After ripping through our roof vents, the masked raiders had to be lured out by professionals with baited cages and welcoming searchlights. All I can say is we had just the right ambience for a high school graduation party in a used car lot.

At least we knew enough to take our neighbors' advice and hire a no kill wildlife control firm for our eviction. As do-it-yourselfers, they'd learned the hard way. Never try to solve your problems by taking matters into your own hands with a twelve-gauge shot-gun. Nothing can crush the top of a new sports car faster than a frightened raccoon dropping from a rooftop!

Now I have just days to go before I turn this nature preserve into something acceptable in polite society. Unfortunately, our resident beaver is downing trees all around us. At this point I'm hoping he lands a box elder on the dining room. I'm prepared to admit defeat and leave nature to it's own devices indoors, while I move the festivities outside. I'm sure my party favors will be appreciated: tick repellant, bug spray and, of course, fly swatters. Oh, and ladies, don't mind the geese. Just watch your step, and whatever you do, DON'T bend over!

Story Telling Festival features Dovie Thomason

tory Telling Festival at the Byron Colby Barn in Praire Crossing, will feature Dovie Thomason, Sunday, June 1, 10 a.m.-noon workshops will include Intergenerational Rolls in Culture, 1-2 p.m.; Kids matinee 3-4 p.m.; and adult's concert for those age 16 & up.

For more than 20 years, Dovie Thomason has shared the time-honored traditions and stories of the Native Americans she represents. The Kiowa Apache and Lakota tales she heard as a young child were lessons intended to teach proper behavior without punishment or confrontation, as the characters faced the same choices in their lives as she did in her own. Passing on these blueprints for establishing values and making choices comes naturally for Dovie as she gently dispels false images of the First Nations People of North America and replaces them with traditional stories to which all cultures can relate.

Three-time winner of the ALA Notable Recording Award, Dovie's performance highlights include the National Storytelling Festival, the Kennedy Center, the Smithsonian, NPR's Living on Earth and the PBS documentary The Call of Story. Some leisurely Sunday morning, spend the time preparing these Hawaiian Waffles. The Tropical Fruit Salsa she suggests as a topping provides just the right touch.

Hawaiian Waffles

- 2 large eggs 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine or vegetable oil
- 1 3/4 cups milk
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 Tbl. sugar
- 4 tsp. baking powder
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup flaked coconut
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped macadamia nuts
- Top with Tropical Salsa (recipe follows)

Preheat waffle iron and spray lightly with oil. In a medium bowl, whisk eggs until foamy. Whisk in melted butter and milk. Add flour, sugar, baking powder and salt and whisk until just smooth. Fold in coconut and macadamia nuts. Pour 3/4 cup batter onto hot waffle iron. Close lid and bake until steam stops and waffle is lightly browned and crisp, 3 to 4 minutes. Remove waffle and repeat with remaining batter. Serve immediately with Tropical Fruit Salsa.

Tropical Fruit Salsa

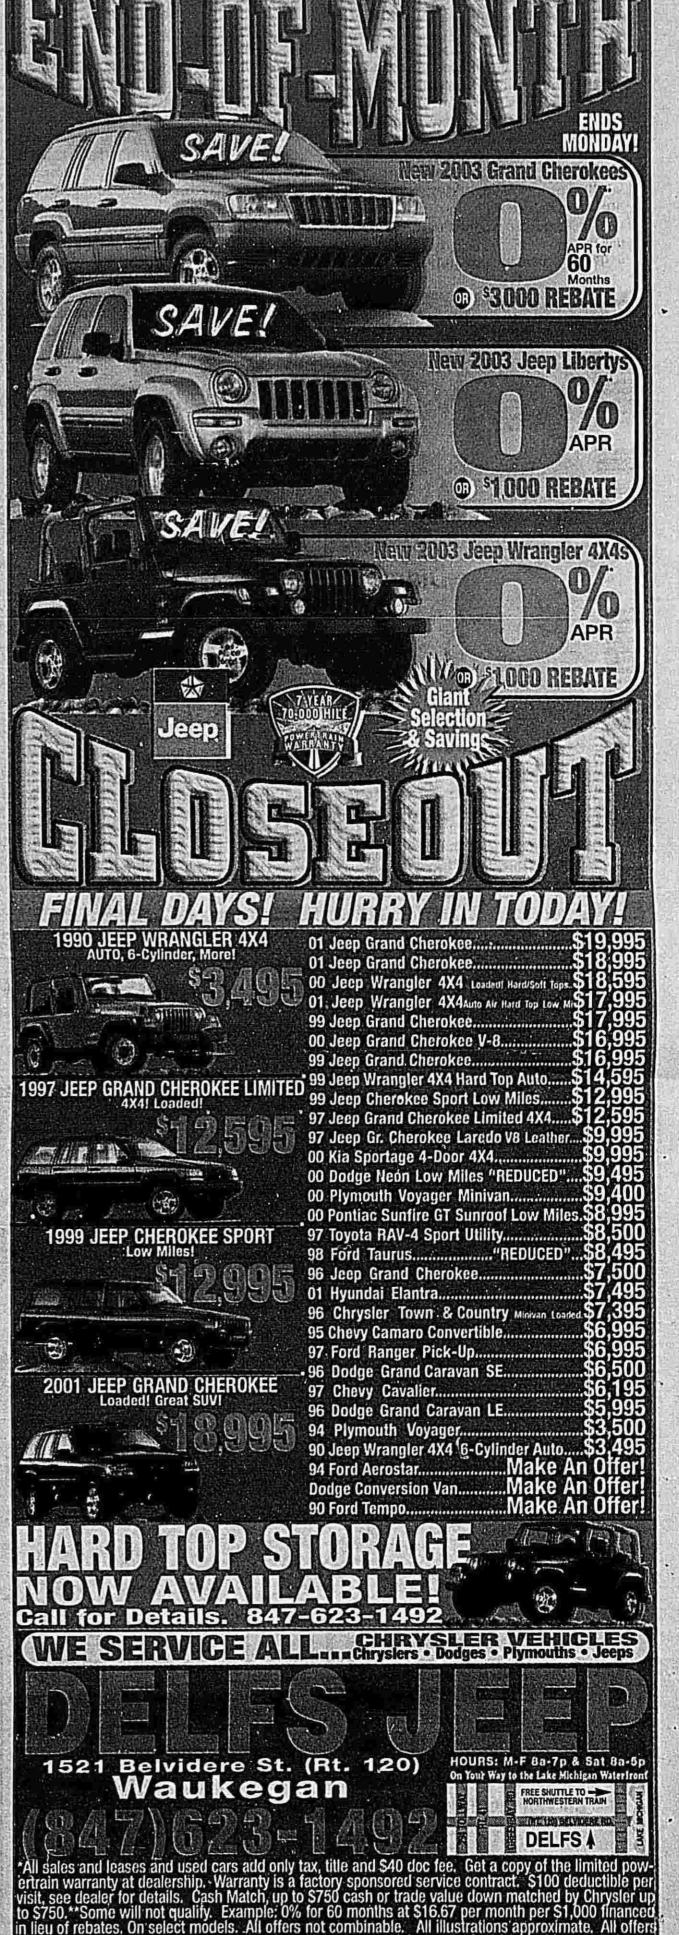

- 1 ripe mango, peeled
- 1 cup chopped fresh pineapple
- 1 fresh jalapeno chile, seeded and finely chopped
- 2 green onions, including some tender green tops, finely chopped 1/2 cup finely chopped red bell
- pepper 1/3 cup finely chopped parsley
- 2 tsp. red wine vinegar 1/4 tsp. salt
- Juice of 1 lime

Make this sweet and spicy salsa about 2 hours ahead to allow the flavors to blend. (Makes about 2 cups.)

Carefully cut flesh away from mango pit in horizontal spears, then cut into 1/4in, cubes. Combine in a medium bowl with remaining ingredients. Cover and refrigerate. Drain excess liquid if needed. Serve at room temperature.

Note: If you have sensitive skin, wear latex gloves when working with chiles.

Simply go to www.beapilot.com, or call 1-888-BE A PILOT to register Dad for a $49 introductory flight certificate, accepted at more than 1,900 flight schools nationwide. That's about half the cost of a typical lesson. To find schools in your area, go to http://www.beapilot.com/schools/. When he's ready to fly, Dad brings the certificate along with the $49 to the school, where he'll strap into the pilot's seat of a single engine plane and learn how to take off, maneuver and land under the guidance of an FAA-licensed instructor. And if he flies by July 31, he'll also receive a free logbook by mail to document his first and any future lessons.

A conversation with... F. Gary Gray

t's not often that a major motion picture is made by a former resident of Lake County. But with the new film "The Italian Job," F. Gary Gray, a 33-year-old native of Highland Park, has amassed a distinguished career in just five films-"Friday," "Set if Off," "The Negotiator," and "A Man Apart". Shari Lansing, the President of Paramount Studios, called Gray and asked him if he would be interested in directing this picture. He believes that the reason he got that call was because she knew who he was and that he can "...deliver action with characters you get to know that have warmth."

Although more than 30 Mini Cooper cars were used in the production, you never see more than three at any time. So much happens with these little gems, that Gray "...had a 24-hour body shop dedicated to the movie." The cast was so tight that he says "it was the easiest group so far." Part of that is because, as Gray says, "Over the last four films, I've sharpened my ability to articulate my vision with the actors." A key factor in the chemistry of the actors being on target was the casting director, Sheila Jeffe, who is best known for assembling the cast of "The Sopranos.

Getting his first professional position in movies as a cameraman at the age of 19, Gray explained the one moves from Highland Park to Hollywood is due to "...planning and the luck of the draw. It's a roll of the dice and working with good people that will give you an opportunity" to succeed or fail.

One reason why the action in this film seems so natural is because the story and characters are the essence of the movie, with the car, boat and helicopter chases functioning as supporting events rather than the reverse.

F. Gary Gray clearly has a vision and knows how to communicate it to everyone involved with making his films. Before a film begins, he creates and distributes a mission statement, "So all would know how to fulfill my vision." Gray clearly conveys a sense of what a director does and what it takes to make a film something special.

ohn Bridger (Donald Sutherland) is a high-end thief also has spent so much of his adult life incarcerated that he and his almost 30 year old daughter Stella (Charlize Theron) hardly know one another. Recently out of prison, he wakes Stella up in Philadelphia with a call from his cell phone, at the site of "one last job" in Venice, Italy. His plan is to steal $35 million in gold bars from a safe in a palazzo, with his partners Charlie (Mark Wahlberg), Steve (Edward Norton), Lyle (Seth Green), Handsome Rob (Jason Statham) and Left Ear (Mos Def).

He tells his protégé Charlie that he regrets not spending more time with Stella and that there are two kinds of thieves: those that want to enrich their lives and those that use their thievery to define their lives. He was the latter and Charlie should strive to be the former.

John is a wise old fool that is more an old fool than a wise one. He also tells Charlie that he should "trust everyone, just not the devil in them." There is a double-cross in the mix, and we are not left long to wonder who the dishonorable thief is. It's Steve, played by Edward Norton, who has convincingly portrayed a few sleazy criminals in his career ("Primal Fear" and "The Score").

The gold is stolen in a spectacular robbery, first in Venice and once again after a champagne toast to victory in the Austrian Alps. One of the gang is dead, and Steve absconds with the gold, thinking he has killed the rest of the group.

A year later, Charlie discovers that Steve is in California when he begins fencing the gold bars. Stella is a "safe and vault technician consultant" in Philadelphia, who

With lots of laughs and as much fun to watch as "Ocean's 11" and "The Good Thief," this one is aimed right down the middle of the alley and knocks down all 10 pins. Adults will enjoy the banter and youngsters will love the Mini Cooper car chase. Great

Seniors upset about graduation day

Round Lake—Some seniors at Round Lake High School are upset that their graduation ceremony will not be held outside and that they want to choose their own speaker, and do a tribute to former student Mike Lampi who died from injuries suffered in a football game in 2001.

Student Katie Groblewski said, "We are very upset and unmotivated. We thought we were doing everything right... but we keep getting shut down. Most things we try and do at this high school get shut down. We always get pushed from one person to the next. We have a lot of ideas yet we feel that everyone else is planning our graduation." School officials said they are looking into the matter.

Village to host version of 'American Idol'

Gurnee—Following one of the most popular reality TV shows, "American Idol," the Gurnee Days Corporation has agreed to have Gurnee Idol' be a part of the annual celebration.

Gurnee Idol will be on Aug. 8, the Friday night of Gurnee Days, from 7-9 p.m.

Marian said the group has just set a date for auditions for the contest. Students, ages 14-18, may audition for one of (probably) 20 spots on Thursday, June 12 from 1-4 p.m. Auditions will be at Warren Township High School's Almond Campus.

Route 21 bridge shut down for a day

Gurnee—On Friday, May 30, the Route 21 (Milwaukee Avenue) bridge will be closed all day, weather permitting. Traffic will be detoured from Milwaukee Avenue onto Gages Lake and Hunt Club-roads. Motorists are advised to use alternate routes on this day to avoid excessive traffic congestion.

Rte. 12 hotel gets favorable response

Pox Lake—Building a destination resort is the goal of hotel and water park developers, which presented plans for a 90-room hotel and water park on the William Sayles property, off Route 12 overlooking Pistakee Lake, The attractions could bring 110,000 new visitors to the village annually.

Our patriotic pulse

By JOHN PHELPS, JULIE MURPHY AND STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporters

Driving through various towns last weekend, it would have been hard not noticing that it was Memorial Day. Old Glory, in the form of flags, pins and stickers, draped from the ceilings of homes and area businesses. Horns honked repeatedly as people demonstrated their support of the Armed Forces and their patriotic pride.

Many local villages had their ways of commemorating the special day. Round Lake's Memorial Day celebration showed the ultimate in patriotism, with its parade culminating in a procession of 6-8 veterans pulled on a flatbed to the Round Lake American Legion Hall.

Army veteran Bob Amundsen was one of them.

"It's been terrific—the patriotism was very high (today), especially where respecting the flag was concerned," said Amundsen, a Round Lake Park native who served for the U.S. Army's communication division. Amundsen worked primarily on the front lines in Okinawa and Hiroshima during World War II from 1943-46.

"The participation was at an alltime high. I haven't been too active with the VFWs or Legion Halls for a few years, but Post Commander Kris Siebert talked me in to coming down today. I'm glad I did."

Amundsen said he was behind President Bush's decisions concerning the War in Iraq. "I support him 100 percent," said Amundsen, whose involvement with the Round Lake's VFW and American Legion started initially in 1946. He helped form Round Lake's Veteran's Organization in 1974. "We should have done what we did a long time ago."

Patriotism was also at an all-time high at the Gurnee American Legion Post 771. According to Post Commander Joe Decavitch, the Legion held three different ceremonies on Memorial Day.

One was at Peterson Park in Gurnee, where two boys scouts and two girls scouts recited speeches that reflected the theme, "The Future Honors the Past."

"They (the kids) wrote their own speeches. It was very moving, actually," said Decavitch, who also served in the communications division (First Class) for the U.S. Navy from Vietnam through Desert Storm.

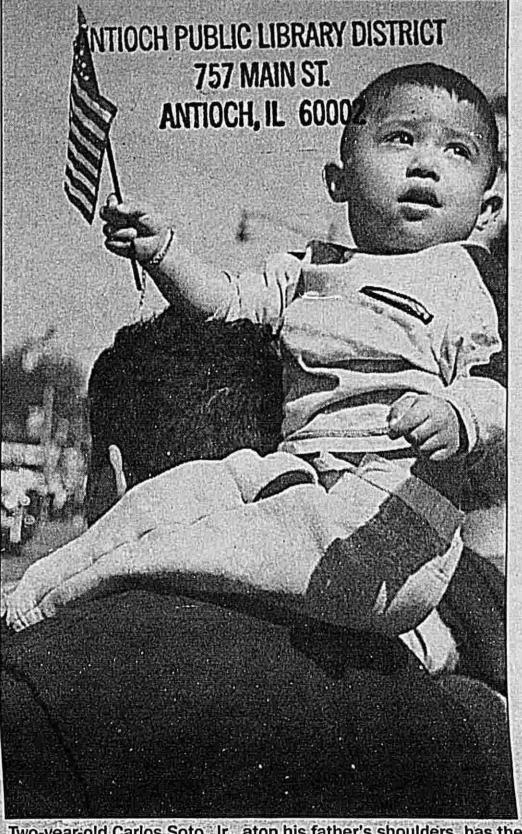

Decavitch also said ceremonies were held at the Warren Township Memorial, which celebrated its 101st year, and Warren Cemetery, for all of the departed veterans.

"The turnout at each was very good," said Decavitch, formerly of Chicago but now residing in Zion. "The respect for the flag and patriotism overall is definitely up."

Sign of the times?

But some see the new-found patriotism that began post-9/11 as a fad while others feel it falls within the ebb and flow of living in a democracy.

WHAT YOU'RE SAYING

ARE YOU MORE PATRIOTIC THAN YOU WERE AFTER 9/11 AND DURING THE WAR WITH IRAQ?

"More! The kids are more aware of (patriotism), too. It's easier to explain. The energy (parents and teachers) are putting into it is renewed."

"I always felt patriotic, but it's just refreshing to see the display of patriotism (now.) It's more visible."

Annual Seniors Day event set

Donations and sponsorships for the 31st Annual Seniors Day Celebration are being sought by the Lake County Forest Preserves. Scheduled for Wednesday, June 18, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda, this annual free event traditionally attracts over 5,000 senior citizens age 55 and better from throughout the Chicago area.

"We're looking for additional corporations and businesses that are interested in sponsoring Seniors Day. A sponsor can underwrite the cost of any portion of the event or provide a special product or service for the day," said Seniors Day event chair Larry Leafblad of Grayslake.

"Seniors Day has become a major community event. Involvement from local corporations and businesses as sponsors and exhibitors adds to its growing success and encourages greater participation from seniors."

This year's major sponsors currently include Golden Sponsors First Midwest Bank, Walgreens, and Silver Sponsors Lake Forest Hospital, Mesirow Financial and Lakeland Media. Additional sponsors and donors are still needed.

The highlight of the event is non-stop music and dancing. The full, sweet sounds of the popular 17-piece John Burnett Swing Orchestra return to the Seniors Day stage from noon to 4 p.m. The morning group is the Banjo Buddies Dixieland Band from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Seniors should pack a hearty picnic lunch and bring their dancing shoes. Free beverages like coffee, soda and water are provided, while supplies last. Free snacks, popcorn and ice cream will also be provided while supplies last.

Free bingo, horseshoe contests, Model A car show, information exhibits and tours of the Lake County Discovery Museum are some of the other popular activities offered throughout the day. Door prizes are given away all day long, and a special ceremony honors all Lake County centenarians and the winners of the Seniors Day Ambassador contest, sponsored by Lakeland Media. A variety of exhibitors are on hand to provide seniors with information and product samples.

For more information on becoming a sponsor or donor, or for more information about the event, call Mary Longyhore at 847-968-3229.

How joining hands helped water quality veral years ago a group of residents of Long Lake, an unincorporated area in west Lake County with a recreational body of water of 346 acres and in excess of 4,000 population, packed a meeting room to point a finger of scorn at Baxter HealthCare Corp. as the major source of pollution of their lake. With representatives of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency serving as combination mediators/facilitators, cooler heads prevailed and a joint effort was organized to determine what was causing high levels of phosphorous and other pollutants.

On the Baxter side was a mound of data attesting to careful and approved operation of a waste treatment facility that discharged into a tributary of Squaw Creek that empties into Long Lake. On the side of the residents was a willingness to enter into a lengthy study to learn more about Baxter's waste disposal system and the environmental workings of the 24,000 acre watershed, largest in Lake County, that drains an area including parts of Wauconda, Mundelein and vast open lands in Fremont Township.

Several weeks ago—many months after the original emotionally charged meeting—Long Lake residents gathered to applaud Baxter's efforts developing a model response to environmental threats and witness the presentation of a resolution adopted by the Lake Country Board commending the global health giant for corporate good citizenship, furthering community education and an outreach program resulting in economic development.

In the intervening 24 or so months, both Long Lake residents and Baxter management went to work to bring about improvements in water quality and enhance an environment filling up with new homes, a case of dealing allow lassic urban sprawl. Long Lake homeowners discovered their own lawn care practices can be a substantial polluting force. Citizens learned such facts as the watershed once had up to 19 permitted discharges (there are believed to be four to six today), which compounded the difficulty of identifying polluting sources. Baxter reviewed its waste water treatment facility on Wilson Road, eventually coming up with an innovative plan costing about $500,000 that ended discharge into the tributary. The plant "ships" treated water to a nearby nursery for irrigation purposes. In effect, no more industrial water would be entering the watershed drainage system, at least from Baxter.

The novel irrigation system had the side benefit of the nursery drop ping plans to close up shop, which would have opened more agricultural land to potential development.

The end result was a flat declaration from Sander Sundberg, president of the Long Lake Health and Sanitation Assn., that "Baxter is not the source of pollution of Long Lake." Sundberg is a retired marine biologist and recognized consultant on water quality issues. Joseph Wolfsberger, Baxter vice president for environment, told the attentive and no longer hostile Long Lake audience, "Your people became our conscience." Chalk up a win-win situation.

So how are things going at Long Lake? Well, there is beginning to be sputtering about proliferation of weed growth. One of the lessons learned in the collaborative study with Baxter is that excessive weeds in a fresh water glacial lake is a sign of improved water quality. Dealing with the proliferation likely will be the next chapter for the care and maintenance of Long Lake. Recreational bodies of water and an area abundant with ponds and wetlands—that make Lake County "special"—requires constant surveillance to maintain health and safety. So it goes. But at least pollution is at bay.

Varsity action calls for maturity ardon me, coach. Is it tomato or tomaato? Potato or potaato? What's the proper position for my pinkie finger during tea service? That may become part of the sports lexicon if overly protective parents have their way with what could become a new code of conduct for high school varsity coaches. Varsity sports isn't for the fainthearted. Maturity is one of the attributes of winning teams, Although they're still teenagers, the young athletes who play like adults usually come out on top when the points are counted.

Tim Bowen, varsity boys basketball mentor at Grayslake High, is the latest coach to feel the sting of parents publically critical of his methods of teaching their sons how to compete and win at the varsity level. Parental accusations were of such a murky nature that the school administration took the official action to not pursue allegations.

Coach Bowen has "paid his dues" as they say on the sports pages to obtain a varsity assignment. His resumé includes experience at Warren, Antioch and Lake Zurich high schools. Grayslake officials weren't hiring an unknown entity when they turned over the boys varsity job to Bowen. He brought with him credentials as to knowing the game, an ability to instill a winning attitude and a reputation for players' appreciation for

Since the parents have vented and school officials have spoken, it might be a good time to step back, take a deep breath and enjoy summer and the fall football season. Oh, yes. Before the next basketball season begins, parents and players would be well advised to decide whether they want to be part of an organized varsity basketball program or play pick up games in the neighbor's driveway.

Army vet eyes new career inding down a successful career in the military, Tim Schultheis is looking forward eagerly to a new occupation he already has carved out.

Until January, he'll be Lt. Col. Timothy Schultheis, stationed with the U.S. Military Entrance Processing Command at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. Then he'll become Tim, the "judo guy" training youngsters and adults alike in the ancient art of self defense and healthful exercise.

With a smiling and outgoing personality, Tim's appearance belies 21 years in the Army, including overseas duty with an armored unit in the Gulf War. He's trim, athletic and easy to engage in conversation-valuable attributes for teaching all ages the life value of the judo experience.

When he retires in January, Schultheis and his wife, Anne, will be operating full-time the Gurnee Judo Club in a building on Grand Ave. they have purchased for their home and training center. The Army veteran is a certified coach and third degree black belt. Anne will serve as business manager.

The Schultheis' are among the many military families who settle in Lake County after days in uniform are over. "We've lived in 13 difference places. This is it. This is where we want to be," grinned the downstate native of Edwardsville where he grew up. Tim's father was a member of the faculty at Southern Illinois-University Edwardsville.

working relationship with the Gurnee Park District. Gurnee Judo Club already is offering classes for beginners, advanced and senior judo enthusiasts. Physical fitness is a big part of judo, Schultheis points out. There are strict rules of conduct. Formal judo training isn't at all like the slam bang stuff seen in action movies. The sport offers discipline, life experience and builds self confidence.

Tim pointed out that judo is an Olympic sport. He said serious youngsters in training at the Judo Club all look forward to world-wide competition. "As they become more proficient, they're ranked. Moving up in standings leads to Olympic competition. That's their goal," he said. Tim and Anne can answer questions by calling 847-816-3062.

Davis novel debutes

Gloria Davis, retired Lakeland Media reporter and theater reviewer, surprised her former colleagues with a just-off-the-press copy of "In December," a newly published novel and her first full-fledged fiction effort described as a historical romance novel- High-spirited and always full of life, Gloria goes right to work in the opening pages with peppery passages providing literary fireworks for a love story with a World War II focus. Details will be following after we catch our breath.

Readers react to golf course column he recent column I wrote about the Lake County Forest Preserve District's plan to spend millions of dollars to upgrade the Fort Sheridan golf course attracted more reader feedback than any other that I have written. Every comment I received agreed with my position that the district is going "overboard."

Just after the column was published, I attended a 50 year wedding anniversary party in Gurnee for Jim and Virginia Kutzler and I was greeted by Jim and George Szostak who both said they read the column and agreed with it. After that, I heard from many others with messages of support.

A few wanted to know why I didn't mention how the members of the district voted and I told them the column was written before the vote was taken. Since I believe those who voted against it voted in the taxpayers' interests, and although they have been identified in Lakeland's Party Lines column, I would like to give them further recognition here. The "Super Six" who voted against the Fort Sheridan plan were Sandy Cole, Steve Carlson, Judy Martini, Diana O'Kelly, Bob Powers and Bob Sabonjian.

To county board members who justify their votes for the elaborate project on the premise that the bonds will be paid off with golfer fees rather than taxes, I say "they just don't get it." It's just too much money-period! Not only that, even though user fees are intended to pay off the project, aren't the bonds backed up by the full faith and credit of the taxpayers?

One of the county board members informed me that at one of the committee meetings, it was said that the district should approve the project if it expects to continue to

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS! COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Six county reps plan 2004 campaigns ix of seven Lake County Board members whose terms are up next year are laying the ground work for re-election in 2004.

They will be running in back-to-back general elections because of drawing two-year stints in the lottery conducted in 2002 to provide for staggered terms after redistricting.

Only Rep. Don Bauer (R-Round Lake Park) is a doubtful participant in next year's spring primary. At the time of his election in 2002. Bauer, satisfied that he had knocked off outspoken Larry Leafblad, a leader in the GOP contingent, indicated two years in office would be enough.

One of the longest serving county board members, Audrey Nixon. North Chicago Democrat, is an odds-on favorite to retain her seat. Republican Robert "Bob" Powers, who came out of a field of five to win election in a new Round Lake district, already has announced opposition. Powers said he is ready to be tested.

Bonnie Thomson Carter, a Republican who represents Wauconda and Grant Townships, expects to face competition in the election balloting a year from November. She started re-election efforts with a mid-May fund raising reception. Carter also serves as president of the Lake County Forest Preserve district.

Two Republicans in position to make strong bids for re-election are Diana O'Kelley, Fremont Township (rural Mundelein), and Sandy Cole of Grayslake. Members of the majority Republican bloc are urging Judy Martini of Antioch to run again. Because of taking an unpopular stand to regulate mobile home parks, Martini has been singled out for harsh criticism from operators of trailer camps in unincorporated Antioch Township.

Getting around

New Waukegan Police Chief Bill Blang has vowed to get better acquainted with his fellow chiefs around Lake County. Biang stayed "close to home" as he rose through department ranks in 25 years on the force, eventually become deputy chief and then interim chief upon the untimely death last spring of Chief Miguel Juarez.

National honors

The Lake County Stormwater
Management Commission will receive national recognition at a lunch Friday, June 6, at Independence Grove Forest Preserve, Libertyville. The Association of State Flood plain managers will present the James Lee Witt Award for the most outstanding stormwater program in the U.S.

Powers: Prepares to face 2004 competition to retain seat.

Ryg: Willing to fight for Republican initiative.

Doubling up

For Democrats, what's better than a party headquarters in Waukegan? Two headquarters offices. Democrats officially turned Hyde for Mayor offices on North Avenue into a township headquarters May 18. The Democratic Central Committee long has maintained party headquarters on Glen Flora Avenue, made possible in the dim dark past through cooperation of a Republican.

New business

High profile Republican Robert P. Neal, out of office but not out of sight, has opened Lake County Consulting. To arrange meetings, open doors, plan strategies involving the political process, Neal exclaims: "I'm your guy." From the precinct level to state government, Neal has been involved in the political process more than 30 years. His experience includes Lake County Board, Lake County GOP chairman, and service on the Illinois Tollway Commission.

Burning question

Lindenhurst Mayor Jim Betustak hopes a public survey will provide answers to a burning question—whether or not to continue legal burning of leaves. Lindenhurst is one of the few municipalities that allows leaves to be burned.

Fighting for Route 22

Can a Democrat fight to maintain a Republican initiative? Absolutely, says State Rep. Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills), especially when it comes to state funding for modernization of Route 22. Ryg says funds for Route 22 improvements were committed through Illinois First by former Republican Gov.
George Ryan. Ryg is part of a bi-partisan effort to head off attempts of Democratic Gov. Rod Blagojevich to sidetrack highway upgrades. "We simply can't let those funds be diverted," declared Ryg, whose 59th district includes a major portion of the south county highway.

receive support from voters in that area for future referendums. As a counterpoint, one of the comments that I received against the wild spending indicated that many senior citizens who now play golf at the Fort Sheridan course are concerned that that the higher fees that will follow after the upgrade is completed will put it "out of their league."

Most of the comments against the plan center around the theme that the Lake County Forest Preserve District, in recent years, has gone far afield from its primary goal by spending huge sums on amenities. I agree with those sentiments and believe that there may be consequences that could hurt future well intentioned referendums sought by the district.

One of the callers suggested that the district should hold the line toward its original mission as defined by statute as well as statements of purpose when the district was formed by referendum of county voters. Toward that end, I have examined the words of one of the "founding fathers" of the district, the late Frank Peers. Back in 1962, just five years after the district was established, as chairman of the district's land acquisition committee, he made statements that have as much meaning today.

Frank Peers said "Nature's open space of land, woods, and water is a rapidly shrinking public treasure. If future generations are to enjoy such privileges of sunshine and air as are ours today, a program of conservation must be initiated and carried out. The district under no circumstances is intended to serve as a park system. Its full function is to conserve the space provided by nature for the development of the scenic charm and beauty that refreshes the soul. Municipal park systems represent a vast investment in physical plant equipment as gymnasiums, swimming pools, play equipment, and such, and the district will avoid such ill-advised projects."

Peers also said, "when people visit a natural site of great beauty it is as guests of those citizens of past years who passed on this heritage as a sacred trust to future generations. The creation of a Forest Preserve District is an opportunity for citizens of today to bequeath such a legacy. Ironically, Peers represented Highland Park in the vicinity of Fort Sheridan.

I think you get the message. It's all about the conservation and preservation of nature and open space in its truest form. The Lake County Forest Preserve District must not stray away from its original mission. Spending many millions to "upscale" the Fort Sheridan Golf Course" is "beyond the pale."

Ride from hell: nothing to read

t was a frustrating situation to say the

There I was, trapped on a train for an hour and a half with my wife and without a newspaper to read.

It was like jumping into the shower and realizing you forgot to bring along the soap. Like Sammy Sosa stepping up to hit a home run and noticing he forgot his bat.

Here, as Paul Harvey would say, is the rest of the story:

We went to a matinee at the Chicago Theatre, down on State Street (that great street). When the show ended we realized that to catch the 4:45 p.m. Metra train back to Fox Lake, where our car was parked, we would have to make a mad dash for Union Station, a mile from the theatre.

So we walked as fast as we could, and sometimes ran, down State Street, then west on Adams. (It didn't occur to us that running through downtown Chicago is something to avoid, lest the police get the notion a pilfering is in progress).

We got to Union Station in the nick of time, boarding the train just before it pulled out. We took our seats, smiled triumphantly and then—oh, oh.—I realized I hadn't had time to stop and buy a newspaper.

I began looking around for a discarded one but other passengers who had bought papers were just opening them and probably planned to read for an hour or so.

A guy across the aisle had a New York Times and I began stretching my neck. "Cut that out," said my wife. I looked at her, she was smirking, enjoying my predicament.

"Now what are you going to do?" she asked. "You're stuck, aren't you? Maybe you're just going to have to talk to me for a change,"

She was snickering now, savoring the way I was suffering.

She had possession of the Playbill from the theater. I begged her to let me read it, but she wouldn't. I read my train ticket; that killed a few seconds. I read the label inside my coat: London Fog. I looked at my watch—6:15 p.m. was a long time away.

I simply can't travel without reading material. I read books at home, but when I get out of town I like to check out other newspapers.

My wife thoroughly enjoys driving, I don't. She likes to think, I don't. So when we travel, she is happy to do the driving, the thinking and the savoring of the scenery, while I read newspapers. It makes the time go faster. Every once in a while I look up and ask, "Are we there yet?"

Who says I'm not fun to be with?
When we drive to Florida, for example, I get to devour the Indianapolis Star, the Louisville Courier-Journal, the Nashville Tennessean, the Chattanooga Free Press, the Atlanta Constitution, the Orlando Sentinel and eventually the Miami Herald. If I run out of big papers, I'll pick up something like the Tifton, Ga., Gazette or the Horse Cave, Ky., Chronicle.

Well, to make a long train story short, a man getting off in Libertyville dropped a few pages of his paper in the aisle. I snatched them up and, together, my wife and I read what was available, including all of the dumb comic strips.

Then we began working the crossroad puzzle until we were saved by the train's arrival in Fox Lake, Ah, there was my car, with several unread newspapers waiting in the back seat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Geo does the job

Bill Taylor's letter of May 15 attacking Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis was both unfair and tasteless. As it happened, the language of this letter was circulated as an e-mail from another individual to several active Republicans with the request that someone else send it, which Bill Taylor eventually did.

When I saw the letter in the group e-mail, I responded that if an active Republican (Bill Taylor is a Republican precinct committeeman) has a complaint to register with a sitting official of the same party, he or she should discuss it privately with that individual rather than leveling a personal attack in the media. Alas, Ronald Reagan's 11th commandment to speak no ill of a fellow Republican is honored in the breach by many of those most likely to invoke his name.

Republicans in the attack mode might start with the anti-consumer bill doubling SBC rates that was just passed by the Democratic legislature and signed into law overnight by our "business as usual" governor—all at the behest of SBC Chairman Bill Daley who descended on Springfield with his brother, the mayor, to oversee the bill's approval.

Senator Geo-Karis has conscientiously represented her district; Lake County and the state for over 30 years. It was my privilege to serve with her for 16 of those years. At times, she has represented a district in which, arguably, no other Republican could likely have been elected. Yet she has adhered closely most of all the time to basic Republican principles.

Republicans especially should be grateful for the ever-cheerful and energetic approach that "Geo" brings to her job. She has exhausted and outlasted some of us who, chronologically only, are quite a bit younger.

Most ludicrous of all was the claim that Geo is hanging on in office because of the pension. Were Geo to do the unthinkable and retire, her pension payments would be quite a bit higher than her current legislative salary. And they would, like all pension income, be exempt from state income taxes and free of the 11.5 percent contributions to the Illinois pension system. Financially and otherwise, Geo does us a huge favor by continuing to represent us in such an exemplary manner.

Not gouging

I would like to set the record straight on the opinion written by Steven Skinner about gouging at the Round Lake BP. (April 11) We are not as fortunate as Mr. Skinner as to shop around for the best price of gasoline. As a dealer we sign a contract with BP to buy our gas exclusively from them. The business is ours, but we lease the name. The station in Grayslake is a BP Connect, meaning that BP owns and runs that station. On March 14 and 20 if we sold our gas at the same price as the BP -Connect of $1.61 a gallon we would have sold it at a negative $.06 of our buying price.

We are a highly respected business in the community, belong to the Chamber of Commerce, contribute directly to the community and support our local schools, police and fire departments. Mr. Skinner, if you would like some answers to your questions about the wide differences in pricing of these two locations I would suggest you call BP and ask then why they sell gas to us at a different price than their own stores.

Also Mr. Skinner, if you happen to stop by our station again and have further questions please feel free to talk to me, the owner, and not a cashier. I would be very happy to answer any questions.

Scott Anderson, a Grayslake resident, said, "For some, the current level of patriotism is a fad, for others the events that have occurred have served as a wake up call. There were some who jumped on the bandwagon after 9/11 just because it was the thing to do."

Lake Zurich's Mary Gorman said she did feel that patriotism would fade as time passes until such a time that there is another national crisis.

In concurrence with that sentiment, Diane Gray, of Fox Lake, said, "Patriotism is historically cyclical and dependent upon U.S. involvement in foreign military action. It is particularly strong in situations where the general population feels that military action is justified."

"I expect that patriotic displays on the part of the general population will decline although significant portions of the population will continue to display flags and yellow ribbons," Gray said.

Love it or leave it

Anderson felt strongly that public displays of patriotism toward the U.S. are appropriate, but that patriotism toward other countries should be kept private.

"Patriotism toward other countries should be kept private," he said. "This is the country that we live in and that has given us our freedoms. If people don't like it (public displays), I feel they don't support our country and should consider moving to a country they can support. If they've come from somewhere else, and are so proud of that country, than why did they come here?"

Gorman added that those who do not choose to fly flags or tie yellow ribbons on trees are not necessarily less patriotic than those who do. "It's fine for people to do what they are comfortable with doing," she said.

Gray said, for her, it's important not to confuse jingoism with being a patriot.

"Just because we live in this country does not mean that we owe our full-hearted support to whatever policies—military, economic, etc. that the current administration chooses to pursue. What it does mean is that we should take full advantage and inform ourselves, arrive at our own opinions, and vote and act accordingly."

How they show it

Dennis Jarr of Fox Lake said that there is a big increase in patriotism now.

"In my neighborhood, I fly the flag 365 days a year. Now a lot of other people are, too," he said.

But it wasn't always like that.

"When I returned from Vietnam, and they saw you had a short haircut, they would stop the conversation and turn away from you," said Jarr, a former commander Lakes Region American Legion Post 703.

Flag sales climb with patriotism

After 9/11, flag sales skyrocketed and flags continue to be a priority among citizens who buy them to lend support for the war or for their own personal reasons.

"People are being more patriotic since 9/11, so flag sales are up," said Ed Collins, store manager at Ace Hardware in Mundelein. "In my own personal experience, we have been flying our flag more in the last couple of years."

At the Kosco Flags and Flagpoles, LLC in Waukegan, owner Shannon Koskinen says flag sales have been up and attributes the increase to the war in Iraq.

"People have purchased new flags to show patriotism for the war," Koskinen said.

With all the flag sales since the World Trade Center attacks, there seems to be a lack of people flying Old Glory.

"There are nowhere near the amount of flags on cars," Koskinen said. "The flags that you see out have decreased."

The Eagle Flag and Banner Company in Grayslake saw the biggest demand for flags in their history after 9/11, but now is seeing a reduction. "It was the biggest crunch ever known for flags but it has decreased since then," said Bill Callahan, owner of Eagle Flag and Banner Company.

Kosco Flags, Ace Hardware and Eagle Flag and Banner continue to have rising sales for Memorial Day and the Fourth of July.

The owner of Flags and Poles by Kaplan which, in Mundelein says the hype for flags was short term. "Personally I have not seen that many new flags or poles going in," said Ernie Kaplan, owner of Flags and Poles by Kaplan. "I think the ones who fly the flag, it comes from their heart whether they have a veteran at home or someone in the war."—By Sonia Schneider

Veterans react to a different kind of warfare with Iraq

Retired U.S. Army Lt. Colonel William Butler knows whereof he speaks when expressing amazement at the weapons, communications systems, training and discipline he's seen in America's War on Iraq.

Butler, a Mundelein resident and 10-year member of the Libertyville Veterans of Foreign Wars post, served in Korea and in Vietnam, is a published weapons expert and served as a weapons instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga. In Iraq, "one Abraham's Tank is more serious than anything we ever put on the ground in Korea or Vietnam," Butler said. "And, with the smart bombs and accuracy of tracking systems from the satellites and gun ships, it's incredible what our forces did in Iraq.

"Just look at the precision of the air-arm operations, the gun ships. Not only are they for-midable offensive weapons, but they are bringing the wounded out of the hot zones so fast, and transporting them to top flight medical facilities."

In the Korean Conflict, many of the casualties were the result of inaccurate position reports. "A lot of casualties in Korea were from 'friendly fire,'" said Butler, who was a platoon leader and specialized in reconnaissance and intelligence gathering.

"What has impressed me more than anything else was having the men wear steel helmets and flak jackets. "Toward the end of Korea, the men were wearing flak jackets, but they were not Kevlar, of course. They were made of metal plates and were extremely heavy."

Butler lauded the joint service cooperation, which in past wars was compromised by "joint service rivalry. This calls for good commanders. We had the Army, Marines, Air Force, Special Forces, Navy Seals all working well with each other and our allies.—By Denys Bucksten

By TIFFANY HAWORTH Special to Lakeland Newspapers

United Way of Lake County hosted its 78th Annual Business Meeting at the Lake County Center For Community Leadership for over 100 of its volunteers.

Leaders and volunteers from Lake County, gathered to hear about the impact United Way of Lake 'United Way's value goes beyond County made last year one issue or one cause' in its community and the future vision for the organization.

The program included reflections on the past year by the retiring chairman of the board of directors, volunteer. Jim Wintrode and highlights of United Way's future goals by the new Chairman of the Board of Directors, volunteer, Warren Schrier. The meeting agenda also included election of officers and new members, the recognition of retiring board members and employee service recognition.

"It has been a year of many challenges and successes," said Wintrode, the retiring volunteer chairman of United Way's board of directors and general manager of Six Flags Great America. "Now, United Way of Lake County,s future vision is clear-we are dedicated to making a measurable and creative impact on our community's critical needs and to replicate its successes."

Highlights from the 2002 year included:

 The opening of the new Lake County Center for Community Leadership, a focal point for the sharing and creation of solutions for community issues. · The formation of a new, volunteer Finance and Administration Committee to oversee and govern United Way's financial initiatives.

· The development and implementation of a year-long Community Assessment, made possible through a $50,000 grant from the Chicago Community Trust.

 The mobilization of 150 volunteers who participated in the county-wide 2002 United Way of Lake County Day of Caring, and an additional 1,000 volunteers matched with volunteer opportunities at local area non-profits throughout the year.

· The organization's ability to raise close to $3.5 million in a slow economy to be targeted to 150 local area programs and services.

Newly-appointed 2003 volunteer board chair and senior vice president of Trustmark Insurance, Warren Schrier, shared his thoughts on the future of United Way of Lake County.

"United Way of Lake County brings us together, as one community to impact the issues we care about most," Schrier said. "United Way's value goes beyond one issue or one cause."

Librarians to launch new web site

Librarians from around the state are working together to select quality Internet resources for inclusion in Illinois Clicks!, an anywhere, anytime information web site for Illinois citizens with a targeted launch date of Aug. 15

"Illinois Clicks! represents a collaborative effort on the part of librarians all around the state, including academic, public, school and special librarians from a wide variety of subject specialties," said Frances Roehm, project coordinator.

With Illinois Clicks!, people will be able to access information quickly and easily from their homes or libraries, and even libraries without a comprehensive web site of their own will be able to offer an important information resource to their patrons, free.

Illinois Clicks! will provide information more efficiently by linking to other Illinois Internet resources. Answers to reference questions will be just a click away, through links to "My Web Librarian," the Illinois virtual reference service. Illinois Clicks! will also be linked to Find It! Illinois, which allows patrons to search more than 20,000 Illinois government sites. Many special collections and previously hidden one-of-a-kind collections will be accessible as never before.

West Nile Virus, Part 2: Mosquito control programs—weighing possible risks

When laboratory tests identified the presence of the West Nile Virus in two dead crows found in the Chicago area, in September, 2001—confirming its presence in Illinois—mosquito abatement districts, locally taxed mosquito agencies, had already been established for some time. Their programs, based on surveillance and non-chemical forms of prevention and control, have also included area-wide ground application and aerial spraying of chemical and biological pesticides (insecticides). With the emergence of West Nile Virus, efforts to control the mosquito population have increased.

Abatement districts, licensed by the Department of Agriculture to apply pesticides, claim their use of pesticides is necessary if we are to effectively control mosquitoes. This is where the controversy erupts. Just how safe is the wide-range spraying of these substances for people and animals?

Trucks that travel down city and suburban streets spray a clouded mist of pesticides along the ground and in the air. Usually done late at night, this controversial method is referred to as "adulticiding" and is done to target adult mosquitoes.

Another form of application, "larvaciding," in which pesticides are applied directly to mosquito breeding areas such as catch basins and standing water areas, is considered to be much safer. The application of these biological and chemical pesticides is more contained and site specific.

Larvaciding also helps to prevent the development of adult mosquitoes. It can reduce overall pesticide use in a mosquito-control program as well, by decreasing or eliminating the need for ground or aerial spraying to kill adults.

ON CALL

Day Simon

In a fact sheet titled "What You Should Know About Pesticides" published by the Erie County Unit of the American Cancer Society, pesticides are described as "poisons designed to kill a variety of plants and animals such as insects (insecticides), weeds (herbicides) and mold or fungus (fungicides).

"Pesticides include active ingredients," the chemical compounds designed to kill the target organisms, "and inert ingredients which may be carcinogens or toxic substances." When it comes to the issue of safety, the publication states that "No one can assure your safety when using pesticides. Most pesticides are associated with some risk to human health or to the environment—EPA registration is not a consumer product safety program."

Most people don't realize that. The Environmental Protection Agency only regulates the use of these pesticides by reviewing, approving, and setting the guidelines for the labels on these products. This is the only safeguard. What is stated on the label is king, and it's a federal violation to use these products other than in accordance with label directions.

Jeff Squibb, spokesperson for the Illinois Department of Agriculture, told me that this is stated in the Illinois Pesticide Act, Section 24.1, and that there is a provision to penalize those who misuse any pesticide—no matter how low the toxicity. This mandate which imposes penalties and fines based on the violation, is published on the web site: www.legis.state.il.us/legislation/ilcs/chapterlist.html, under the listing for 415 ILCS60 (Illinois Pesticide Act, 24.1).

I wasn't aware of this law when one night I was out walking my dog and was sprayed by a Clarke Mosquito Control truck on the street in front of my house in Lincolnshire. Clarke is one of the major contractors and suppliers of products for mosquito control. My dog and I were enveloped in a choking gray-white cloud of chemicals. I felt as thought I was part of a science fiction movie. I had no idea that what was done to me may have been a violation of the law.

Now, six years later, armed with a newspaper column and an official press pass, I asked the same Mr. Squibb at the Dept. of Agriculture if he thought it was safe to be sprayed with the pesticide. His response was, "Generally, I would think not."

I then challenged Clarke Mosquito Control. I called Laura McGowan, their spokesperson to the media, and asked her if the products they spray are intended for use on humans. What was on the label? She told me"not intended for human use." Nevertheless, she insisted the pesticides were relatively safe because of the Ultra Low Volume (ULV) factor of pesticide in the spray.. "Exposure to products we use causes no undo risks to humans," she said. "The active ingredient that is sprayed is only 6/10 of an ounce per acre—it's disseminated in droplets of 17 microns which is smaller than the size of a pin head. It is meant for use in highly populated areas."' -

The pesticide label I obtained for Anvil 2 + 2 ULV, the compound that according to Ms. McGowan has been used in this area for almost 20 years, clearly reads "harmful if swallowed or absorbed through the skin." Nowhere is it stated that this product is intended to be applied to humans in either its concentrated or diluted form.

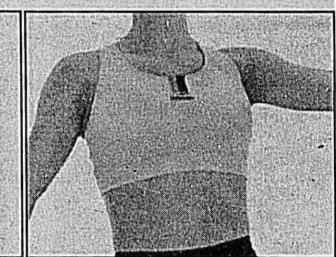

Complaints should be phoned in to the Illinois Department of Agriculture's pesticide misuse hotline at 1-800-641-3934. The hotline number for the Illinois Poison Center is 1-800-222-1222. The law will only work for you if you use it.

Mosquito borne diseases affect millions of people worldwide each year. West Nile Virus is real. West Nile is dangerous to humans, birds and some animals. I wonder. however, if the controversial battle plan of adulticiding is effective enough to really make a significant difference.

My golden retriever, Marty, died two years later from "schwannoma", a cancer of the schwann cells—the sheath that surrounds the nerves in the skin. I will never know what caused the cancer.

Charity fund-raising ball a success

The unofficial results are in, enough to qualify the 17th annual Sweetheart Ball fundraiser sponsored by Assistance in Healthcare Foundation as a rousing success. This year's guests to the annual ball could be deemed a very generous group.

The estimated total for this year's ball is a whopping $83,000 to help qualifying patients and families in need for the coming year. That figure put the charity event well ahead of last year's results with more fund-raising yet to come during this calendar year.

The ball featured a dinner/dance and a silent auction that acts as the major fund-raiser of the year for the charitable organization. The event also featured a special "capsule table" of smaller items and a 50/50 raffle. Each year, Assistance in Healthcare receives community and business support for the ball in the form of donations of items for the silent auction, sponsorships for the event and/or cash donations.

The main sponsor for the event, scheduled this year at the Crown Plaza North Chicago in Mundelein, was Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion. A capacity crowd of 380 people attended.

Assistance in Healthcare, a not-for-profit 501 (c)(3) foundation, provides grants for the non medical expenses, assisting patients and their families who have become financially distressed as a result of their fight against cancer and other catastrophic illnesses.

Throughout last year, a monthly average of 45 patients or patient's families were helped by the funds raised. Other than the costs associated with the ball itself, all the funds raised by the volunteer organization go to patients or their families who have demonstrated need. Anyone wishing to donate to the charity organization throughout the year may call Carol Lulinski at (847)872-6302, Sandy Grasser at (847)872-6441 or Barb Albert at (847)872-6462.

the week, Virgo, and several people are counting on you to make the right choice. Turn to a loved one for advice if you need it.

LIBRA - Sept. 23/Oct. 23

Don't be fooled by an acquaintance's tall tale. If something sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Remember that. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Enjoy!

SCORPIO - Oct. 24/Nov. 22 Don't let your ego take control during a business meeting early in the week, Scorpio. Be proud of your accomplishments, but realize that you still have to work diligently.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov. 23/Dec. 21

Don't back down when an acquaintance challenges you this week. You know that you are right, and you can prove it easily. A close friend turns to you for romantic advice.

CAPRICORN - Dec. 22/Jan. 20

While you want to advance your career, don't be too aggressive. That special someone needs to borrow money. Do what you can for him or her. AQUARIUS - Jan. 21/Feb. 18

Don't keep quiet when you know that an acquaintance purposely has made a difficult situation worse. Cancer plays an important role in a romantic situation on Saturday.

PISCES - Feb. 19/March 20

Stand up for yourself when a co-worker makes accusations against you. If you just explain yourself calmly, everyone will know that you're telling the truth.

Carmel boys track leads way to State finals

By MIKE KRIZMAN Lakeland Correspondent

Even though Carmel didn't win the Grayslake Track Sectional, they'll still be well represented when they travel to the campus of Eastern Illinois for the state meet in Charleston. Preliminaries take place on Fri., May 30 while the finals for all events will be on Sat., May 31.

The Corsairs came five points short of sectional winner Zion-Benton, managing 75 points as a team. But head coach Jim Halford couldn't have been happier with the results.

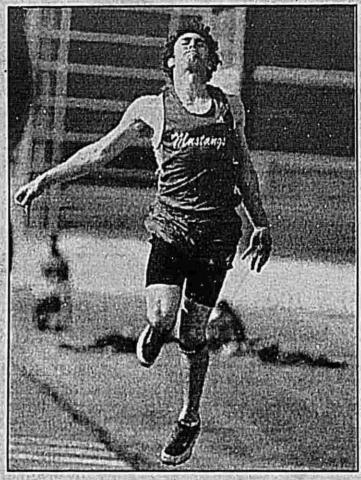

"It was a great sectional," Halford said during the team's practice Tuesday afternoon, "The two-mile relay ran great, and even the relays that didn't make it like the 400 (they ran 43.5) and the 800 (131.6.) ran well. The mile relay was phenomenal, and then James (Looby) with the two hurdle races. We're very pleased."

Looby missed most of the season with a hamstring injury, but managed to qualify in both the 110 hurdles (second, 14.8) and the 300 low hurdles with a time of 39.7, also good enough for second.

"For being hurt for six weeks, he (Looby) has really come on," Halford "Thank goodness only a junior."

Carmel's 1,600-meter relay team of Pat Kimener, Jim Levasseur, Kevin Devitt and Rich Fugiel also qualified for state, as did the 3,200 relay team of Levasseur, Brian Wynn, Steve Dana and Fugiel. Kimener also qualified in the pole vault with a second place finish height of 12-0.

Along with Carmel, several other area high schools will be sending ath-. letes downstate this weekend. Mundelein's Matt Heber was the winner in the 110 hurdles, edging out Looby with a time of 14.6.

"That was my first time running against (Looby all year," Heber said after the race. "I didn't really know what to expect from him. I heard his footsteps behind me."

Heber will also compete at state against Looby next week in the 300 hurdles, along with Antioch's Michael Perry and Grant's Eric Horvath, who finished first and second, respectively.

Horvath, only a sophomore, was left nearly speechless after qualifying for a spot in the state meet.

"Ever since the beginning of the year my coach has been telling me I could get this," Horvath said. " I've been trying so hard to get downstate. It's so overwhelming I can't believe it."

Hunter Sheldon from Vernon Hills qualified in the 1,600, but this time he'll have some family company downstate after twin brother Cole won the 800 with a time of 1:58.4.

"I've never ran that hard before. I really wanted it," Cole Sheldon said. "This is my first time going downstate. I can't believe it."

Warren will send Mark Schneider down to the state meet after a second place finish in the 800, as well as their 1,600 relay team. Libertyville's Aric Braun made it with a first place finish in the pole vault, while Antioch will send its 3,200 relay team, discus winner Ryan Jordan and 1,600 run winner Andrew Napier.

Round Lake's Jeremiah Edwards qualified in the high jump with a height of 6-8.

Area girls track raises the bar in Charleston

The pole vault event is tough enough.

But Libertyville's Lizzy Proctor had made it look relatively easy in her four years competing for the Wildcats.

Proctor made it three medals in three years at the Illinois High School Association State Finals for girl's track and field, ehld in Charleston over the weekend. Proctor's leap of 11-feet, 3-inches earned her a fifth-place medal. Geneva's Sarah Landau won the event with an 11-6. Two years ago, Proctor took seventh in the polke vault when it was first introduced as a girl's field event. She then backed that up with a fourth-place effort last spring.

Neighboring Vernon Hills High School also had nice representation from Sherlenia Green, a senior who qualified for the finals in two events: the long jump and the 100-meter dash.

Green, headed to Southern Illinois University, was third in the long jump at state last year. In Charleston this past weekend, she posted a best jump of 17-ffet, nine-and-three-fourths inches, almost a foot better than her efforts in the preliminaries.

Green, the sectional champ in the 100 (12.20), finished ninth in that event with a 12.47. She was second in her heat in the prelims with a 12:26.

Running mate, sophomore Tori Steinhaus, narrowly missed qualifying for the finals in the 100-meter high hurdles. In the prelims, she clocked in at 15.84 seconds. The 12th and final time making it to the finals was 15.24.

Warren senior Dana Klemm made it to the finals of the discus, where she wound up 12th with a toss of 39 feet, three-and-one-fourth inches. Klemm made the finals by finishing eighth in the first of four preliminary flights. Klemm also qualified in the discus, but came up short in making it to the finals. She had a throw of 111-feet, 1-inch to finish seventh in the prelims. The 12th and final spot was a 121-5.

Teammate Nadine Panton, a two-time state qualifier, also missed the finals in the 200-meter dash. In the prelims, the senior finished fourth in the sixth and final heat with a 25.82. The cut-off for the top-12 was 25.02.

Running the third leg of the 1,600-meter relay, Panton joined forces with Ashley Bonds, Alicia Ivy and Asha Pumphrey to finish ninth in their heat with a time of 4:14.91, just missing the finals as the final time making it was 4:00.99.

Mundelein's Amesha Baker also just missed the finals in the 200. In the prelims, she finished sixth in her heat with a time of 26.67 seconds.

Vernon's 800 sprint medley relay was also competitive. The team of Jacqui Leffler, Mryiah Landesman, Emilie Clark and Allison Kim ran a 1:55.38 to finish sixth in their heat. The cut-off for the top-12 was 1:49.94. The Cougars were third in that event at sectionals.

The Cougar 400-meter relay team of Leffler, Lisa Craver, Clark and Landesman also ran strong (53.13) but missed the finals as the cut-off was 49.44 seconds.

Carmel's 800-meter relay team also had a strong showing, finishing seventh in the first of five heats. The team of Eileen Bader, Pili Slez, Keli Coleman and Keri Coleman, which finished second at sectionals, came in with a 1:47.84.

Keri Coleman also qualified for state in the 100. She posted a 12.90 in the prelims. The cut-off for the finals in the 100 was 12:39.

The Corsairs 400-meter relay team, which won the sectional title in 49.60, finished fifth in their preliminary heat. Again, the cut-off was 49.44.

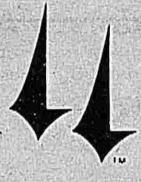

And, Corryn Bitto eanred a ticket to state in this, her senior campaign. The sectional champ in the discus, Bitto finished 12th in the prelims with a toss of 114-feet. The cut-off for the finals was 121-5.

The Northern Lake Country Lady HoopStars seventh-grade basketball team started the 2003 summer season in convincing fashion by going undefeated in the Kenosha AYBT Tournament. In four games, the Lady HoopStars went 4-0 while outscoring their opponents 195-46.

Leading the Lady HoopStars in scoring was point-guard Shana Shepherd with 43 points and 22 steals over the four games. The guards gave the middle a rest by stealing the ball an average of 10 times per game. Another great addition to the Lady HoopStars, Erin Norwood, contributed six steals while Lory Shaw, Rachel Culp, and Joree Green each added 4.

The HoopStars also got good experience while competing in a tournament in Salem, Wis. where they played both seventh- andeighth-grade squads. Overall, the team did well winning in posting a 4-3 record.

Defensively, Boothe finished with 69 boards over the seven-game event. Storming in from the sides to grab a few were Shana Shepherd (27), Erin Norwood (22) and Erin Claxton (20). Meghan Slack was able to grab six steals, while Kelly Dones added four. Up top, Rachel Culp was directing traffic to the tune of nine assists. Speed and aggressive pursuit to the ball yielded eight steals for Joree Green and six for Hayley Glynn.

The Northern Lake County HoopStars program is a traveling basketball program for boys and girls in grades 4-8. They are based in located in Gurnee. The Lady HoopStars are in their second year as a team and compete at the seventhgrade level. Paul Claxton coaches the team. Joe Shepherd and Terry Culp are the assistants. New year at Wilmot off to fast start

The following night, visiting modified pilot Jason Zdroik of Big Bend did not take long to get accustomed to the new Local Motion Entertainment's Wilmot Speedway one-third mile clay oval configuration. In Zdroik's first time ever at the facility, he scored an impressive victory in the 40-lap modified feature in the First Annual Modified Open.

Tony Schlei of Zion captured the 12-lap hobby stock feature in a return to the track where he captured the track championship in the division two seasons ago.

"This was a fun place," said Zdroik in victory lane. "I didn't really want to see those yellows towards the end, but it turned out Zdroik took the lead with 10 laps remaining as he overpowered Rob Olson. A couple of late race cautions with less than six laps to go kept closing up the field. On one restart, the pack actually got five wide as it roared into the first turn on the newly configured high bank.

Zdroik was up to the challenge after starting seventh in the 20-car feature field.

Mike Sandholm took the initial lead. Olson shot to the inside down the front straightaway on lap six to take the point with Zdroik, Lee Tibbitts and Ed Devall in tow.

Olson got a little out of shape coming out of turn four, allowing Zdroik the opportunity to work into the lead and go on to the win.

Devall came on to finish second. Tibbitts had a strong showing in third. Chuck Ostergaard was fourth. Scott Kuxhouse came back from a flat tire during the waning laps to finish fifth.

Modified, although unsanctioned by IMCA, ran under similar rules. Modified heat race winners were Ostergaard, who later won the "Dash for Cash;" Jason Zdroik, Kuxhouse and Jim Morrison.

"This was fun," said Schlei after his win in the hobby stock feature. "This is a new car and I've been running for IMCA points, but saw there was a race back at Wilmot and decided to come out and see the new track. It worked out great. I hope to come back whenever I can.

William Groleau in an El Camino took the early lead in the hobby stock feature. Jim Scanlon challenged briefly before Schlei worked his way up from the back of the field at the midway point in the non-stop main. At the checkered flag it was Schlei, Groleau, John Simons, Scanlon and John Robinson in the top five. Wilmot Speedway continues its 2003 season on Sat., May 31, with 410 outlawwinged sprints, IMCA modifieds and hobby stocks. This is the 52nd consecutive year the facility, located on the Kenosha County Fairgrounds, has operated. But is the first under new promoters Local Motion Entertainment, Inc. Grandstands open at 5 p.m. with the first race scheduled for 7 p.m.

Carmel volleyball winning easy as 1-2-3

By MIKE KRIZMAN Lakeland Correspondent

Carmel hasn't seen many 30-game winners in their long athletic history. But one team is rewriting that history.

The 2003 version of the Corsairs' boy's vollevball team keeps chugging along and setting milestones in the process. The team surpassed 30 wins this season, most by any Carmel volleyball team. But the list of accomplishments keeps growing. The Corsairs' record stood at 32-1 as of Wednesday, including an East Suburban Conference clinching win against Marist.

There are several keys to having a successful season, and according to senior Danny Bryant, the Corsairs follow every one of them. "First, we have teamwork," Bryant said.

The Northern Lake

County Mustang sixth-grade boy's basketball team won the title in the

"On the court, we're best friends and off the court we're best friends.

"Secondly is our defense," Bryant continued. "Mike Morici and Matt Zwolski are the human floor burns. And third is our blocking. Our blockers make my job so much easier."

Bryant said that the team's go-getter attitude has been a major part of the team's success so far this season. It as that attitude that won Carmel their first conference title in the school's volleyball history.

"I'm still in shock, but I'm not surprised we won conference," Bryant said. "Winning conference was one of our goals and I can't believe we finally accomplished it."

The team's 15-12, 15-5 win over Marist was also special for head coach Jon Baffico.

"Beating a team like Marist on our home court was just great," Baffico said. "We gained a lot of confidence by beating them at their place during the regular season."

However, one thing Baffico would like to see an improvement on is the team's start to their games.

Carmel eventually defeated Mundelein 15-6, 15-1 behind Bryant's 8 kills on 15-of-16 hitting. But Mundelein hung around for part of Game 1, holding their last lead at 6-5.

But the game didn't start until 8:30 p.m. and Baffico felt the late start had something to do with the slow beginning.

"We've had a problem all year with how we start the game," Baffico said after the team's win over Mundelein. "I think the long delay in between [regional] games had something to do with it though. Starting this late is unusual for both teams. Once we get through our early game jitters, we do

While the Corsairs have accomplished many feats this year, Baffico and Co. doesn't want to stop now.

"I hope we continue achieving the goals we set for ourselves," he said.

BALANCE LIFE FOR HEALTHY WORK

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Several years ago I read an article written by a hospital chaplain. He had been at the bedside of many people shortly before they died. His primary point was that although he had heard many people who regretted spending too much time at work, he had never heard anyone complain about spending too much time with family. Nor had he heard anyone complain about spending too much ime golfing, fishing, or exercising.

From his perspective, people who are close to the end of life have a good understanding of priorities. He went on to surmise that much of our American society'is skewed to work. We do not take our time for relaxation, as we ought. Nor do we spend time with our family and friends. Balance is important. Here are some ideas to help balance

 Keep yourself healthy. Start an exercise program and learn how to eat a balanced diet. There are many books on nutrition. In addition, family doctors usually have informa tion on eating correctly. Plan an exercise program. Start slowly and build up to a more challenging level. This program does not need to be costly. Walking, jogging, and bike riding are all good cardiovascular exercises. Calisthenics at home can significantly improve muscle tone. Health club memberships and expensive home equipment are not · Plan to spend time with family and friends. My family spends every Sunday evening together. My two best friends live about fifty miles from me. I have to plan time to be with them. Yes we can have relationships at work. But often those relationships are based on expectations. Family and friends, in a healthy relationship, accept us for who we are. There are few expectations. We need to spend time with those who love us unconditionally.

· Find hobbies. Unfortunately, too many of us come home from work exhausted; we gobble down a meal com-posed mainly of fat and cholesterol and spend the time before bed watching television. There is nothing wrong with watching a good movie or an occasional ball game. However, spending time doing productive activities that compliment work helps to balance our lives.

A carpenter who comes home and does woodworking as a hobby has missed the point. A computer programmer who comes home and builds web sites has missed the point. But a programmer who comes home and remodels his kitchen, or a carpenter who comes home and builds a family web site understands task balance.

Give back to others by doing charitable work. The number of people who have contributed to my life is beyond counting. I feel an obligation to give back to others who have a need. And the truth be known, I grow significantly from those experiences. That growth manifests itself as an appreciation for others, as a feeling that I have helped another person, and through the joy of seeing oth-

A balanced life can make work more enjoyable. Exercise, relieves stress. Good nutrition is the basis for physical and emotional well being. Spending time with others builds binding relationships with those who love us. Serving others and hobbies give a sense of self-fulfillment. Try balance. It will change your work perspective.

ot all of Antioch Community High School's soaring seniors will pursue college and law school, but two standouts will.

Both Cassaundra Kemp and Frank Vanderwall aspire to specialized fields within the legal profession. Kemp intends to enter the field of environmental law while Vanderwall has his sights set on patent law.

By JULIE MURPHY

"I want to go into environmental law," said Kemp. "I don't have to decide right now, but I think I might minor in environmental studies and keep my main focus prelaw."

Vanderwall said he would take a slightly different approach and major in mechanical engineering while taking on pre-law as a minor.

"I made the decision to go into patent law because I enjoy physics and math, but I really like law," he said. "It really appeals to me. I like that I would be protecting peoples' ideas so that others can't come steal them."

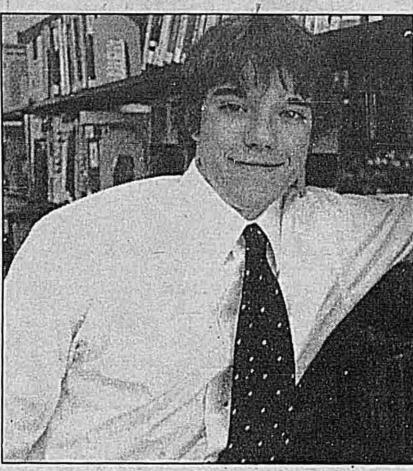

Vanderwall will attend the University of Illinois in Urbana while Kemp will attend a small, liberal arts school called Rocky Mountain College in Billings, Mont. Kemp has three scholarships pending and Vanderwall has four scholarships secured.

Both keep the schedules expected of would-be lawyers, juggling full course loads, jobs and leadership roles within the high school.

Vanderwall, an Antioch resident, works at the local Jewel-Osco during the school year and umpires baseball during the summer months for both Antioch and Lake Villa youth baseball.

"I'm such a huge baseball fan," Vanderwall said. "It's not a hardship to umpire baseball in the summer. I really look forward to doing it."

Kemp travels a short distance from her Lindenhurst home to the Carter's children's clothing store in Gurnee Mills.

Vanderwall

"I love working with children, but I really like helping the new parents out," she said. "They don't know what they need or want, and I like offering true help."

Kemp, who has had her job for two years, said the only thing that has kept her from a managerial position is her

"You have to be 18 years old for management, and I just had my birthday. Maybe I'll get a promotion," she said.

In their four years at ACHS, both Vanderwall and Kemp have served as role models for other students at the school from within the activities they are involved.

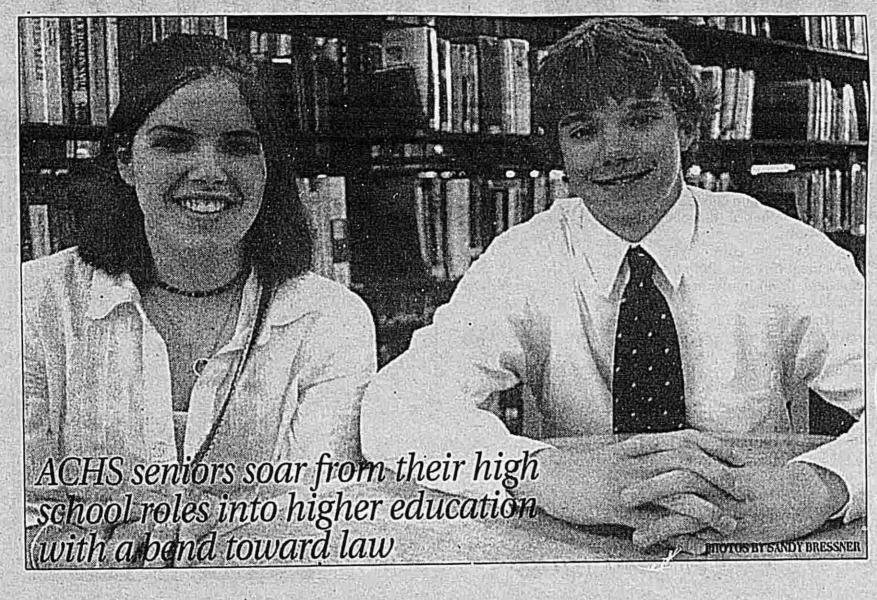

Kemp

Kemp is part of the Freshman Advisory Panel, is a peer mentor and serves as a reporter for both the local and north district of the Jobs for Illinois Graduates (JILG) program. Vanderwall is a member of the National Honor Society (NHS), a JILG member, has played baseball for the school and plays bass guitar in a band called Fallout.

Vanderwall combined his interest in his band and the service hours needed to fulfill the requirements of the NHS to raise over $800 for cancer research last year. He's made the gig annual, and hopes that future high school ou don't really have to do a lot of soul-searching if you attend Carmel High School in Mundelein. They do a fairly good job of helping-you with that. Starting with day one, Carmel students are highly encouraged to get involved with as many activities as possible, whether they are required or not.

From participation in the ministry to 20 required hours of some form of community service required per semester, students certainly get a big jump on what lies ahead in the world following graduation.

By JOHN PHELPS

"Students here operate from a deep personal center—they're active and set lofty goals for themselves. We try and facilitate that," said Father Bob Carroll, the school's principal. "We want to prepare them so that they have the ability to achieve their goals and be persistent and dedicated with whatever they are involved in,"

While there are countless students who are testament to that formula, two in particular have used the Carmel system, so to speak, to its fullest capacity: seniors Amanda Pirih and Quintin Cappelle.

Pirih is already a well-traveled woman. Prior to coming to Carmel, she lived in England for four years because her father received a job transfer. It's an experience that helped her prepare for Carmel, you could say.

"Just seeing the different cultures over there (London, to be exact) and changing scenery prepared me mentally for just about any situation," said Pirih, who ranks in the top 5 percent of her class with a 4.35 grade point average. "Moving around a little bit when I was younger made me not get too attached to any one thing. It was also really cool learning French and being able to speak to the people over there. It was a great experience. It prepared me in a lot of different ways."

Prior to London, Pirih lived in Florida. She was born in Roselle, and currently lives in Green Oaks, near Libertyville.

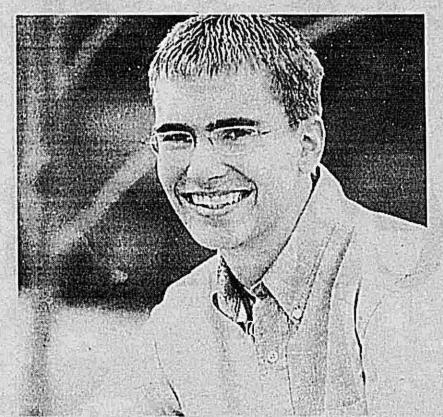

And while London prepared her for Carmel, Carmel is and has prepared her for life after high school.

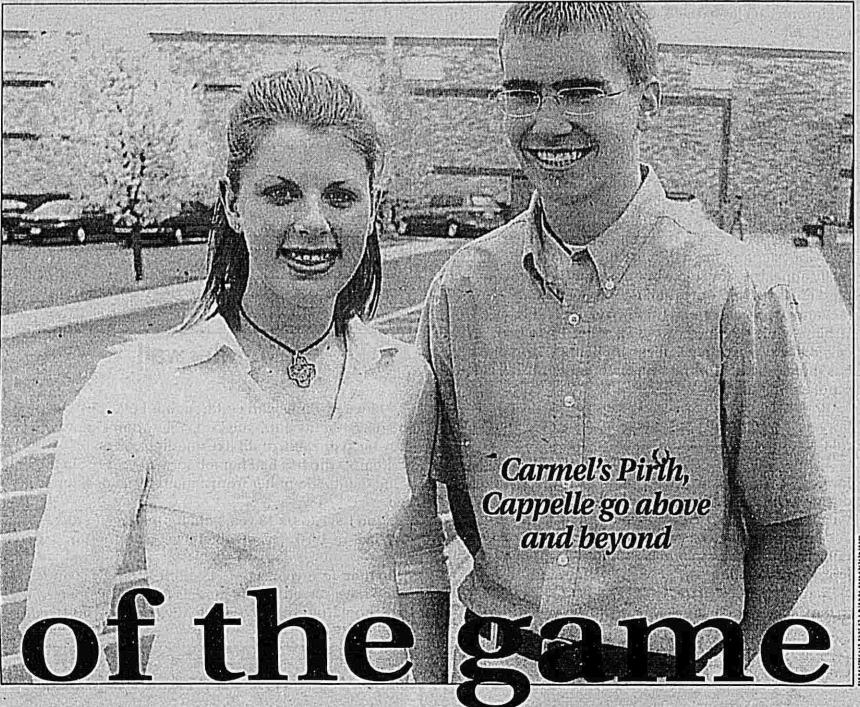

"They (Carmel) really get you to exceed above and beyond; to be involved with not only academics, but extra curricular activities," she said. "They want you to be a part of as much as possible, so you can bring something back to Carmel."

As mentioned, the community aspect is a big part of the Carmel plan.

"They stress that very much," said Pirih. "We sign contracts right from the beginning (your freshman year) for 20 hours per semester of community involvement. The coaches and faculty are terrific, from the time you first step foot in until the time you graduate. They are all very kind and really make the students feel comfortable. That makes things easier for you. And the more things you're involved with, the more confidence you build."

Pirih has excelled in just about everything she's been involved in while at Carmel. She's been a member of the National Honor Society for the past two years, is involved with Carmel's spectacle 'Street Scenes,' which is put on every winter, and is a member of the French and Mu Alpha Beta Math clubs. She is also a four-year member of the volleyball and softball teams.

As for her community service involvement this year, Pirih did her two semesters, or 40 hours, at Libertyville's Cook Memorial Library.

"That was a lot of fun. They have programs for kids where we read to them," she said. "I also teach Catholic education classes for kindergarten at St. Joseph's in Libertyville."

Following graduation, Pirih plans on going after an engineering degree while attending the University of Illinois.

As for Cappelle, this guy could easily be a professional musician.

He is also a prime example where taking advantage of the opportunities afforded to him by Carmel is concerned.

"It's definitely the teachers and faculty," said Cappelle, who currently ranks No. 1 in his class. "They really care about developing each student to their fullest potential, in and out of the classroom."

Though he is involved with numerous activities, Cappelle's main love has been music. Since elementary school, he has been studying the piano and playing the trumpet with a private instructor. While at Carmel, he's been a member of the marching, jazz and ensemble for all four years.

"He's one of those kids that picked the skills he was good at and honed in on them, as to perfect them," said David Wiebers, Cappelle's music instructor and director of Carmel's music department. "He goes above and beyond, as to set the bar to another level. He definitely has the drive and knows how to push himself."

Speaking of that other level, Cappelle has been on the Illinois Music Educator's Association District 7 Festival Honors Band since his sophomore year. He took it a step further this year when he qualified through districts to become one of the top trumpeters in the state of Illinois. He earned first-chair trumpet for the IMEA All-State band.

"I just really enjoy playing," he said. "It's one of those things you pick up on right away and try to excel at."

Cappelle, like Pirih, is also a member of the National Honor Society and pianist for Street Scenes. He has also been involved in student council and the Mu Alpha Theta National Math Club. For the National Honor Society, he was elected first vicepresident this year.

As for his community service, Cappelle did community hours this year for the Penwasciz Program at Condell Medical Center.

"That was really cool," he said. "I was what you call a candy striper. That's where you go around to different floors assisting doctors and nurses with their patients. We also had to do clinical time every week, where you're assigned to help out on a designated floor."

A prerequisite before one can graduate from Carmel, is a mandatory retreat, which doesn't have to be through the school. Cappelle worked for the American Red Cross his freshman year. For the last three years, he went on service trips through St. Joseph's Youth Group, traveling to Mississippi twice and Wisconsin once. As for the ministry, that is part of the religion course requirement at Carmel, run through the religion department.

Following graduation, in a short two-three weeks from now, Cappelle, believe it or not, wants to get involved with the pre-med program while earning a chemical engineering degree from the University of Dayton.

Ironically, he is heading to the Ohio school on a music scholarship.

Both Cappelle and Pirih agreed on one common thread that not only bonds the two of them, but the entire student body at Carmel.

Just the memories I'll have of walking through the halls, saying hello and knowing just about everyone in your classthat's what I'll look back on the most," said Cappelle.

As for Pirih; "just doing a lot of different things and having the support of my classmates, teachers and family is what means the most to me," she said.

They might be headed down different avenues once they graduate, but Pirih and Cappelle will always share that one common thread-they focus on and excel in whatever they do.

Grant High School

rant Community High School students, faculty and the community have come to know Ashley Davidson and Doug Grom over the past four years. The pair are both student leaders, and will graduate as the top two students from the Fox Lake high school, class of 2003.

Davidson, a senior, is the daughter of Brenda and Scott Davidson. She has a brother, Scott and a sister, Jennifer, who is older. Her sister attends Winona State, while Scott graduated from University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Davidson graduated from Gavin Junior High in Ingleside after spending her first few grades in Minnesota. She plans to attend Winona State University in Mankato, Minn. next fall.

Davidson is class valedictorian while Grom is class salutatorian for the Class of 2003.

"Both have given so much of themselves in terms of service to the school. I can't say enough about either one. They both have bright futures," said Dr. Marilyn Howell, Grant High prin-

"Definitely my friends, and I will miss walking down the halls and knowing practically everyone's faces and being able to talk to any one of the teachers," Davidson said.

"I would say definitely my friends, and just the general student body. I get along with all the teachers, a few especially, due to National Honor Society and student council," Grom said.

Grom's recent achievements include being named an Evans Scholar for golf.

"In junior high, I was in peer leaders, student council, volleyball, basketball and track. Basketball was definitely my favorite,"

"I'm very proud of my class rank with a 4.591 GPA. I think the honors courses are not that much tougher, there is extra homework, but you get used to it. My freshman year was a little hard to adjust," Davidson said.

"I kind of just fit right in what was required. English was not my strongest early. My best subjects are math and science,"

"My weakest point is definitely science. My strongest points are math and English," Davidson said. "I like writing essays, if it is a topic that I am interested in. I like certain aspects of math," Davidson said. "Our sophomore year, I took Honors U.S. History. We had fun doing it, but it was a challenge to make it interesting and fun. We had to reenact a battle of the Civil War. We studied the battle of the Saratoga. We went over to my friend's house, when it was freezing cold, when the video started, it was light out, by the time we finished, it was dark out," Davidson said.

"If you want to strive for success, the teachers are willing to help you. Any teacher is willing to help before or after school," Grom said.

al community events. Davidson is competing in girls track this spring, in the shot put and discus events. She is also president of the Student GCHS Council.

past. We have done two canned food drives, and we are doing a cancer walk (May 17). Mr. Taubery (Eric) has tried to change things up a little. We are rewriting the student council constitution and change things up, so the students talk one-on-one with the administrators and come up with ideas to improve things," Davidson said.

Grom is president of the National Honor Society. The group helps out in the community with such events as the Fox Lake Rotary Club's Christmas for the needlest children's party and at a spaghetti dinner and others. Grom has also been awarded an Evans Scholar, a program for golf caddies.

"We put in a lot of volunteer hours in the concession standwith the Lions Club and spagnetti dinner. The NHS is well recognized by people in the community and the school. It is definitely an elite group of students. We strive for leadership, scholarship, character and service; all the members definitely show those," Grom said.

Grom grew up in Ingleside. Jeff and Terry, a junior and a sophomore are attending Grant. Larry, an older brother, attends the University of Missouri-Columbia. Grom also one younger sister, Janet.

Both Grom and Davidson were glad to spend their senior year at an expanded Grant High.

"It created a lot more space due to a growing student population. Less crowed hallways and up-to-date technology," Grom said.

"It was just an adjustment, but really nice. The added hall space, for the science labs, you can do so much more with the new labs," Davidson said.

Despite the current events, both are optimistic about the Class of 2003 outlook.

ive neut key to success ant's Davidson, Grom

"I would say most are optimistic to go on for an education," Grom said. "I don't think finding jobs is too much different than it ever has been. I would say it is optimistic," Davidson said.

Davidson will begin her quest to major in marketing.

Davidson is busy working on her shot put and discus talents for the track and field team. "I remember four years ago, I must have asked her to join the team 10 times. She has worked her way up from our fourth or fifth best thrower," said Jim Cramer, GCHS track coach. Grom would like to major in business administration and later go to law school, for the business law

Phil Ralston, Grant High's head boys basketball coach, praised Grom's dedication.

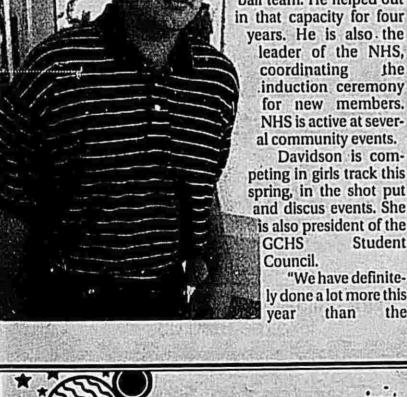

"He is a first class student. Gaining an Evans Scholarship puts him into a select group because it is based on his character and academics. With his work ethic, he will be very successful," Ralston said.

Ralston said t Grom was a very reliable statistician, whenever he needed to know something during a game, he was there with the information. "Outside of the coaching staff, there was no one that I relied on more than Doug," he said.

Any words of advice from the parting senior leaders in Fox Lake?

"You definitely need to get involved and have a good attitude. Don't be pessimistic," Davidson said.

'Everyone should get involved. It opens up to a variety of people and you meet a lot of different people," Grom said.

here are times when the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. This is the case at Grayslake Community High School (GCHS) where two seniors, friends since the third grade, are able to move mountains by playing off each other's strengths.

Adrijana Bisevac and Shannon Binder are members of a mutual admiration society.

When interviewed, rather than talk about themselves, each wanted to talk about the other.

"I love Shannon," said Bisevac. "She's a wonderful person. She's always organized and she keeps you focused."

"There are not many people who don't know and like Adrijana," said Binder. "She's outgoing, personable, bubbly and warm. You can't accomplish a lot without being likeable."

There is no doubt the two young women have accomplished "a lot," individually and collectively, academically, socially and pragmatically.

Bisevac is the president of the student council. Binder is the secretary. Together, they have inspired their peers to do more and go farther than ever before in supporting the needs of their school.

"They raised $20,000 for their prom in three years," said Dustin Chierico, a social studies teacher who is also faculty sponsor for the class of 2003. He explained the norm is about $7-8,000.

Binder and Bisevac inspired their class to break records in the annual food drive as well. They raised the bar by collecting 28,000 pounds of food for distribution to the needy. During their junior year, 20,000 pounds were collected. The standard, before the pair of dynamos got involved, was about 10-12,000 pounds.

"Our goal was 22,000," said Binder. "We didn't think we were going to make it, but on the last day, contributions poured in."

"Shannon and I can think of ideas, but you can't get 28,000 pounds from just two people," said Bisevac. "I think we set the bar for how much you can achieve. The class under us sees our work ethic, and how we work together. I think they can achieve more. I would not be surprised if next year they do 38,000."

If there was one area of endeavor where the pair feels they have made an important difference, it was in their efforts to help pass a referendum in November that allowed the school to reinstate programs threatened by budget constraints. Sports, clubs and French and Spanish honor societies are among the programs slated to be restored in 2003-04, due to the influx of funding.

Bisevac and Binder conducted a studentrun, door-to-door campaign to encourage voters to support the school.

"Adrijana called every one of the 64 members of the student council to organize the walking campaign," said Rita Fischer, social studies teacher and student council sponsor.

Chierico pointed out the altruistic nature of the effort. "If the referendum failed, it would not have affected her, personally," he said, as Fischer noted that even without the demands of trying to get a referendum passed, it would have been a busy time for most seniors.

"Working with students like these makes teaching a rewarding career," she said. "This is what it's all about."

The duo has been actively involved in many areas of school life practically since the moment they arrived at GCHS.

Binder is co-president of the President's Council, a group that meets monthly with the school principal to provide student input on a variety of issues. Bisevac is also a member of the council.

Both are involved with planning of Class of 2003 activities. Binder was vice president of her class as a junior and served as treasurer while a sophomore.

Binder is a member of the Varsity Honors Choir, which placed third in the state. Bisevac expresses herself in her role as sports editor and editorial board member of the "Rampage," the school newspaper. She also enjoys Serbian folk dancing.

Both students are academically sound as well. Binder maintains a 4.32 GPA (with extra points accrued through honors and advanced placement courses) and Bisevac holds a solid 4.0. Both are members of the National Honor Society.

Each is employed, as well. Binder works at Gap, and Bisevac works weekends at Einstein Bros. Bagels in Libertyville.

Local civic groups have acknowledged the young women for their efforts. Both the Grayslake Exchange Club and the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) have named Binder "student of the month." Bisevac received the ABWA honor twice: once in 2002 and once this year.

Each has strong academic talents, and plans to use them.

Binder has accepted a $10,000 scholarship to attend Northwestern University in the

"I'll be going to the school of engineering," she said. Typical of her tendency to push her own limits, Binder said she decided to try for engineering school to open up her options.

"I'm strong in physics and math," she said. "That looks like engineering. I figured it's harder to get into engineering school than a liberal arts college. I can get into engineering school and test the waters. It's easier to switch to liberal arts than the other way around."

Bisevac has shown a strong interest in politics. During spring break, when most students are looking for a beach party. Bisevac was looking for a political party. She went to Springfield where she interned for State Sen. Robert Churchill (R-Grayslake). .

"The way other people are about rock stars is the way I am with politicians," she said, ending the remark with her "trademark" giggle.

She is planning to go to Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis. next year, where she will major in business and market-

"I might do a double major," she said. "Maybe political science,"

Lest anyone buy into the idea that teenagers who are academically strong and socially altruistic are also unpopular "nerds," these two people break that mold.

Binder was TWIRP Queen. This is not as bad as it sounds. In this case, TWIRP is an acronym for "The Woman Is Required To evin Timony hasn't always wowed his peers at Libertyville High School with his leadership abilities.

LHS' Timony — a low-key leader

Timony didn't make the Wildcats' basketball team his junior year at a hoops-happy school. And, at 5-foot-9, 130 pounds, he hasn't challenged the Brad Pitt-types for king of the hall-ways.

But Timony, senior class president and the student representative on the District 128 school board, is a character with character. Last year, when he was cut from basketball. Timony was a runner for the Learning Support Team (LST).

Kathy Haan, a secretary for LST and a Libertyville village trustee, remembers the day Timony learned he hadn't made the team.

"When he came into LST, you could tell he was upset. I told him that when one door closes, another, better door opens. In his case he became president of the student body, took charge of a food drive that broke all records (and again this year), was on the prom committee, and was in the top 16 Turnabout King."

Haan said "Kevin is enthusiastic, hard-working and a leader. He's extremely low key and he's just a great kid, but without the big head. He's well-respected by his peers."

And if he couldn't shine on the basketball court after a three-sport (soccer, basketball and track) freshman year, Timony, a National Honor Society student who's also on the Athletic Leadership Council, decided he would take up cross country.

In his junior year, Timony made all-conference in the sport. But Timony also has the rare combination of great speed and endurance, and besides his prowess in cross country, he runs one leg on the Wildcats' four by 200-meter relay team.

And it gets better. Timony, and buddy Chris Bleck, also cut from the basketball team his junior year, are the play-by-play and color announcers for CAT TV. "I wanted to stay in basketball and I'd always wanted to do sports broadcasting. Mr. (Don) Johnson said he could use us and we've been doing it the last two seasons."

Sports casting, which has provided the dynamic duo with some memorable moments and incredible fun, "is something I could always fall back on," said Timony.

Turns out, Timony has been trying to place his head in the lion's mouth going back to Oak Grove Junior High School, when he took the part of professor Harold Hill in the stage and cinema classic, "The Music Man."

"The only reason I got the part is that I was the only boy in the school willing to sing," said Timony. "I talked to the director after the casting call and she said I had it from the start because of that reason."

"Looking back I have no idea how I was not extremely nervous before I performed. I guess the curtain opened and I said 'This is it.'"

One of the things that helped prevent the potential fall-on-your-face disaster of squeaking through a musical, said Timony, was that his mother Yvonne Timony, was undergoing chemotherapy for breast cancer at the time.

And Yvonne Timony, said her proud son, was too busy helping her son prepare for the singing and acting role. "The day before Christmas, when I saw my name posted as Professor Hill, my mom, who was bed ridden, got the CD (of "The Music Man") and helped me learn the songs.

"I really think I did the part mostly for her. I wouldn't want to know how it would have been

LHS' Sweeney juggles Model UN, sports, choir and volunteer work rank Underbrink began to get an inkling of what Kristen Sweeney was about during her freshman year at the newly opened Vernon Hills High School.

Sweeney was a student in Underbrink's Honors World History class, and also joined Model UN, which Underbrink has coached for almost 10 years.

As Underbrink recalled, "we had a Model UN meet that freshman year and she won a best delegate award. That almost never happens to a freshman."

As her class moved over to Libertyville High School for the next three years, it turned out Sweeney was full of more surprises as she not only became a team leader and a trainer of other Model UN students, but became one of the best

By DENYS BUCKSTEN

Underbrink had ever seen.

"She was more cool and logical (than her peers)," said Underbrink. "She sees problems before they develop and knows how to handle them. And, for the team, she knows how to train and shape people so they know how to handle things."

For Underbrink, being over at VHHS and having Sweeney at the LHS Butler Lake Campus, "has been a Godsend. She's over there and I'm down here. We have three-five-hour training sessions in which every student chooses a different country, and she does a lot of that training."

Sweeney's leadership ability, Underbrink said, evolves from her "being very quick thinking on her feet. But it's not only that; she's very good at making sure discussion and debate follows parliamentary procedure and rules and making sure things don't get off track.

"She's very good at caucusing; she knows how to write a position paper and how to get resolutions passed" he added olutions passed," he added.

Underbrink said he describes Sweeney's leadership style as "taking command of almost any situation and showing people how to do things."

For Kristen Sweeney, 18, and headed for the University of Illinois, leadership was something she began gravitating to at about the age of 5, while on the soccer field.

"I was used to leading the defenses in soccer, and I got involved in student council at Highland Middle School in the sixth, seventh and eighth-grade."

Entering high school and getting into a heavy Advanced Placement schedule meant some hard choices had to be made, so Sweeney didn't continue with student council.

Sweeney, who now carries four AP classes, Spanish, statistics, English and U.S. Government, liked from the very start the idea of being a delegate from a country and learning how to represent that country and culture on the Model UN level.

Speaking in front of large numbers of people, as with the larger Model UN competitions, didn't come easily to the student athlete.

"I used to have stage fright, when I started Model UN," she said. "It's kind of nerve wracking to get up and debate and have people asking questions, in competition with upper classmen.

"But when I won best delegate at my first Model UN competition at Stevenson High School, that helped."

Her speaking secrets? "I try to get up there and be personable, and by doing that, I think I came into my own. Now when I go to a conference, I have something prepared for an opening statement, but the rest Lend up winging it," she said.

statement, but the rest I end up winging it," she said.

Sweeny said she likes Model UN so much, she said will continue with the nation-wide pro-

Janosch looks to write his own success story

fter four years at Mundelein High School (MHS) Brian Janosch has found his calling in journalism. Beginning as a staff reporter on the high school newspaper, Janosch climbed the ladder to sports editor by his senior year. "I like doing things to see if I am interested." Janosch said. "I have alwäys been a sports fan, and I decided journalism is the best way to be involved."

His parents Keith and Maureen Janosch

By SONJA SCHNEIDER

were surprised when he began at the paper.

"When he graduated from middle school, he hated writing," said Keith, his dad and a special education teacher at Walter R. Sundling Junior High. "It is the irony of life."

Janosch currently has an internship at the radio station WKRS, writing stories.

"This internship has been one big learning experience and is very beneficial," Janosch said.

Janosch takes an interest in a variety of clubs and activities. He plays soccer in the fall, joins clubs in the winter, and attends all the MHS baseball games in the spring.
The Law Club is one he had a lot of fun with.

The club receives a case file with witnesses, creates a defense or prosecution and competes against schools in Illinois.

"I never saw an interest in law, but putting on a mock trial was fun," Janosch said.

Janosch also takes part in events the National Honor Society (NHS) puts on. NHS hosts a St. Patrick's Day dance for handicap individuals. Janosch was nominated for his character to set up the dance.

"In a life where things are so difficult, this is one night to make them feel like part of the group," Janosch said. Keith remembers a time when Janosch was being chased and flirted with by one the handicap adults and handled it like a mature man.

"I was so proud of him that day," Keith said.

Janosch received the Mundelein Pride Award for volunteering at the dance. During his junior and senior year, Janosch participated in the D.A.R.E. role model program. Janosch went to elementary schools in Mundelein to talk about how high school really is.

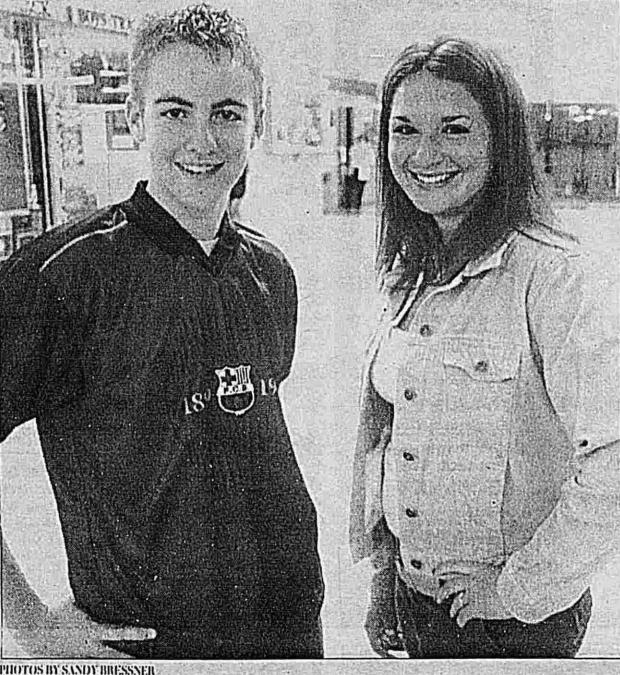

"It is different when it comes from someone in high school than an adult," Janosch said.

Janosch was able to join interesting clubs that sparked intuitiveness.

"My school gives great opportunities," Janosch said. "If you can't find something that interests you between internship programs, clubs and classes, you are not looking hard enough." lanosch surrounds himself by great people who all have impacted his life.

Janosch comes from a close-knit family. He has younger twin brothers who will enter into high school next year. The family dog, Gizmo, is Janosch's best friend. Janosch has had Gizmo since he was 5 years

Plucinski's table is set for a bright future

aving a lot on your plate is an . understatement for one Mundelein High School student. Stacy Plucinski has her schedule stacked with extracurricular activities. For four years, she has been a player on the volleyball team and involved in the Athletes Committed to Excellence Committee.

By SONJA SCHNEIDER

The committee helps the community by raising money to help students prepare food for three families on Thanksgiving. They also put together a blood drive last year, which turned out to be a success.

Other organizations and clubs Plucinski is involved in include: President of the First Class Club, where students gather before school and chat on current issues; Vice President of the Student Council; a D.A.R.E. role model; and the Interact Community Service Club.

She also participates in Amazing Mundelein where people from the community join in on cleaning up or painting the town and low-income or senior citizen's homes.

"We are given a list and supplies for painting, cleaning gutters, mowing and raking lawns," Plucinski said.

Even though Plucinski doesn't have much free time, she does find the time to apply for scholarships and pick her college.

'I am in the running for the Academic Achievement Scholarship from my school," Plucinski said. "I am one of 16 kids and our interviews were last week."

Plucinski will attend Illinois State University and plans to become a first grade teacher. "She was the most insecure person as a child, but after her first grade teacher made all the difference she knew what she wanted to become," said Plucinski's mother, Sharon. Currently, Plucinski is interning with her first grade teacher at Mechanics Grove Elementary School, grading papers and reading to the children.

"I love teaching and being with the kids," Plucinski said.

By being a teacher, Plucinski intends to change the community and plans to make a differ-

"I would like to change the way schools are now and make them more diverse," Plucinski said. "I think Mundelein is really segregated."

She also says schools are beginning to change and if people start small, it will cause a ripple effect and change will occur.

"The students at Mundelein High School are very diverse and are successful, which will contribute to the success of the next generation," Plucinski.

Plucinski owes her success and strength to create change to her family.

"My parents have never missed a baseball or volleyball game, which has showed my brother and I they will always be there when we need them," said Plucinski.

Pride of the Success for Nicoline isn't always just on the playing field

> hey say it's hard to be humble, but Jimbo Nicoline is as humble and unassuming as they come.

A deadly three point basketball shot, a standout pitcher on the baseball team and a 3.87 grade point average at Round Lake High School has done little to swell Nicoline's head.

Jimbo never brags about himself," said Debbie Lampi, mother of former Round Lake star athlete Mike Lampi, who died after suffering injuries in a high school football game. "He is very humble. He has won five games and lost none this year, but he never mentions that. He only talks about the team. Jimbo has stayed in contact with me since Mike passed away and that shows a lot about his character."

By JEFF ZACHARY

Lampi added she had surgery recently and Nicoline comes over regularly to check up on her.

"He is the type of kid that everyone wants to have, and the type of guy the other students want to be around," said Lampi.

"I'm so glad that he is going to the College of Lake County so I can continue to watch him play basketball and baseball."

Another fan of Nicoline is Round Lake school teacher Ron Sapochak.

"I have known Jim since I coached him in freshman basketball. One day I got in his face and told him he needed to work a lot harder on defense to be a good player and he was near tears, said Mr. Sapochak.

"After that day, he started to improve tremendously and turned into a very good basketball player for the Panthers. Jim is a quiet leader ... but he is a leader. Coach Conkling tells me that the entire baseball team picks up their game a few levels when Jim is pitching. The team has tremendous confidence in Jim when he's on the mound and he picks everybody up," he added.

Sports are not the only things Nicoline is good at, according to the teacher. "I also have had Jim in my math class the past two years and he has done an excellent job, earning an "A" in AP calculus, which is a very difficult class. Jim has put forth great effort both on the playing field and in the classroom. I'm very proud of the person he has turned into," said

Nicoline joins his classmate Janet Marrufo as being picked as outstanding student leaders for the class of 2003.

And if there is one person who knows most of the students at Round Lake High School, it is Dr. Mary Davis, school District 116 superintendent.

'It has been a genuine pleasure to know both of these students. Jim and Janet are exemplary and that is why I recommended them as students worthy of recognition. Janet has been a leader since she started at the high school. She is not afraid of hard work, and has done so much to give her fellow students representation and extras in their secondary experience," said Dr. Davis.

It's all part of the plan for Marrufo espect is something that's earned, and Janet Marrufo has earned the respect of her peers, teachers and public officials in the greater Round Lake community.

"I have known Janet since she was in my class during her sophomore year," said Round Lake High School calculus teacher Ron Sapochak. "She is a very active leader. She has planned proms and other events for her class, and everyone knows that if Janet's in charge, the work will get done and get done right."

Mr. Sapochak added, "Janet is really an upbeat person. She usually has a smile on her face and a positive outlook on things. She often pays me a visit during the school day and says something to put a smile on my face as well. She doesn't know how much I'm going to miss seeing her around this school after she graduates. Janet has always struck me as somebody that you know that somewhere, some way, someday is going to make a big difference in our world."

School social worker Kathy Myers is another person who Marrufo credits with having a positive influence on her life.

"Janet is a bright, fun loving, inquisitive student who is constantly striving to do better," said Myers. "She is always looking for ways to make life better, and she is not afraid of hard work and commitment. She is a joy to be around."

The reasons Marrufo receives such respect are numerous. She has been her Student Council class president the last five years and has been an active member of the Round Lake Area BEST coalition during the same five years.

BEST stands for Bringing Everyone's Strength's Together, and the group consists of Round Lake area mayors, police chiefs, school board members, preachers, social service workers and residents who are trying to make the community a better place to live.

BEST has shown me a lot of things. It showed me how to become more responsible, have more structure, and to learn about how the real world is, and the types of people that I will be dealing with," said Marrufo. "It has showed me the people who stand out and really care about the community.

Marrufo was in charge of organizing the 2002 high school prom and helped raise over $40,000 for the event.

She has also helped organize the "Hoops World Collide," a 2001 charity basketball game and the "Variathon" to raise money for the Round Lake school district.

Marrufo is also a regional 3-point shootout winner in basketball, and last year made all conference in soccer despite the fact it was the first year she went out for the team. She has also played on the volleyball team and ran track for two years.

In addition, Marrufo has served as an election judge twice in Lake County elections. Marrufo plans on joining the U.S. Marine Corp. as soon as she graduates this year.

"I've always wanted to join the service," said Marrufo. "I've always shown a lot of pride in my hen it comes to leadership, Steve Hernandez and Brian Schoo demonstrate it daily in the classroom and on the athletic fields at Wauconda High School.

Leadership is calling card for WHS's Schoo, Hernandez

"I have been playing sports my whole life. I remember playing soccer at age 4 for the township program," Hernandez, the son of Tony and Lisa Hernandez said.

Hernadez played soccer, basketball and baseball at WHS, but was also a successful student, taking advanced placement classes in U.S. history and others. He is a member of the National Honor Society and is looking forward to graduation on May 31.

"AP classes are definitely a challenge," he said.

Hernandez will attend the University of Illinois this fall, where he will major in aeronautical engineering. "It's a very selective college. I was interested at one point in the military, but I would like to design airplanes," he said.

When entering his high school career in 1999, Wauconda was a place where Hernandez seemed to fit right in. "I was excited, like every freshmen, about the freedom. I also have liked the fact that the teams that I have been on have been so close, since we were 8-10 years old," he said.

Everyone in our class is ready to move on to the next step. We'll miss all our friends. We have enjoyed high school, but it is time to move on to college," Hernandez said.

"They are the type of students, who you tell them to get involved and they do. Both have outstanding GPAs and are great leaders. What makes them good in school will also make them excellent citizens," said Jim LePage, Wauconda High School principal.

By STEVE PETERSON

Social Studies teacher Kerry Kohlbacher has had both students in class.

Both are fine students. I have had both in AP honors U.S. history. It is a class where you can qualify to get college credit. You have to have a B in honors history first. I have also known Brian, as he was in my psychology class when he was a sophomore. They are both good students, knowledgeable, and will be very successful in whatever college that they choose," Kohlbacher said.

Hernandez enjoys, in his NHS role, tutoring other students. "It's a privilege. Instead of going to study hall, I can tutor students and interact with other NHS members," Hernandez said.

Hernandez has two other brothers, twins Chris and Mike, at Wauconda. Mike also plays soccer and Chris plays soccer, baseball and basketball. Wauconda has won Prairie Division titles in soccer the last three years.

"They always asked me to play football, but I liked soccer. The conference that we are in (the North Suburban Conference) is pretty competitive, but we have done well in soccer. In general, we play the sports to win and are motivated," he said.

Brian Schoo was a state qualifier in wrestling and co-captain of the soccer team with Hernandez. Schoo competes in the pole vault for the boys track team, and hopes that interest continues at Ohio State University this fall.

"Wrestling showed me how to get through adversity, and the ups and downs of losses," Schoo said. "Coach Tom Nance prepares you very well for the mental aspect of wrestling," he said.

Wauconda High soccer coach Terry Stevig had high praise for both students; academics and athletics.

"Steve played midfield for us and was our captain. He is an extremely talented kid, easily likeable. Brian was the same way. Brian played sweeper (defense) for us and was tenacious and fearless," Stevig said.

Schoo's success has not come without sacrifice. He suffered a concussion at the close of a wrestling season, costing him most of the soccer season the following year.

Schoo is a member of the track and field squad this spring, competing in the 200-meter dash and a relay.

His character and leadership are huge on a daily basis, both at meets and in practices," said coach Megan Zemanek.

Being so involved in school and sports teams, including working with the revamped Varsity Club, "taught me how to manage my time," Schoo said. "And what you start in school, you finish and on time."

When he reported at WHS in 1999, he had high hopes, but seniors quickly put him in his place.

The WHS Varsity Club has been active with Schoo's help. It staffs the Wauconda Rodeo, schedules donkey basketball games and organizes care packages. Kurt Rohwling is the group's advisor.

Schoo, son of Dan and Marlene Schoo, has one sister, Sara, and a brother who attends college at Iowa State University.

Schoo also was a George Williams College advisor for two years and attended leadership conferences sponsored by the North Suburban Conference.

Gurnee/Warren Township

Congratulations Warren Township High School Class of 2003

Inspiring our community to work together in developing healthy, caring, competent and responsible youth.

Warren Township High School

Grant's voice is the influence for Warren seniors

arren Township High School senior Dan Grant prides himself on being influential and committed to everything he does in life.

For starters, Dan is president of WTHS's student council, and has been involved with the student leader group since elementary school.

"We're the voice for the students," Dan said. "I like to think we're the most influential group at school."

Dan thoroughly enjoys student council, he said, and believes he has made a difference at the school through the organization.

"I've tried to make it so everyone wants to be there and make everyone feel like they have a role, which was lacking in the past," he said.

Although he says student council eats up most of his free time, Dan has still found room in his life for numerous other activities.

Dan is also president of the Mayor's Youth Council, a group of students who meet with Gurnee Mayor Don Rudny to discuss ways high school students can become more involved in the community.

Through that group, Dan has helped put on a safe driving assembly and sponsor candidates' forums for the April school board elections. Dan said the group also talks about local politics with Rudny during its meetings.

Rudny said Dan is a "fine young man."

"I don't think I can say a bad word about him," Rudny said. "He's really been a driving force in getting the Mayor's Youth Council going and I'm going to miss him."

Dan's involvement with the Mayor's Youth Council could have something to do with his strong interest in politics. Dan will be attending Tufts University in Boston in the fall, and most likely majoring in political science or economics.

"I hope he'll come back to Gurnee and run for mayor," Rudny said. "He's got a good chance of being a great political leader."

In the future, Dan hopes to become involved in law, public service or public office. Dan's possible future in law may have stemmed from his mother.

Susan Grant, Dan's mother, has a law degree and works for a non-profit organization that deals with abused and neglected children.

"She could be making a lot more money, but she has her priorities straight," Dan said of his mother. "She actually wants to help people and I really look up to her for that."

Susan said her son's accomplishments and involvements give her great pride.

"He's been a joy to have," Susan said. "Sometimes I describe him as a quiet leader. He isn't someone who needs a lot of praise to get fulfillment out of it. I do worry sometimes though because with everything he's involved in, he doesn't sleep a lot."

Dan also plays the trumpet in Warren's band, is preparing to receive the honor of Eagle Scout, is involved in Healthy Communities-Healthy Youth, has participated in Teen Court and works as a part-time sports writer for the Waukegan News Sun.

Dan, who plays intramural sports at Warren and played on the varsity tennis team last year, said among everything he participates in, he enjoys sports the most.

"My No. 1 hobby is sports," Dan said. "Watching sports, playing sports, following Warren and Chicago team sports and covering sports." Dan also volunteers for Youth United for Lake County through the United Way. Dan said his involvement in the United Way is intrinsically rewarding to him. "It's a community service that focuses on Lake County," Dan explained. "It shows that you don't have to go halfway around the world to help people — there are things you can do right

Milewski lets her spirit guide her to bigger and better things arah Milewski is a teenager who has let her values and beliefs guide her through her high school years at Warren Township High School.

"I have pushed myself to be involved in as much as possible in high school," Sarah said. "I'm really involved and I love what I do."

Sarah is the president of the Future Business Leaders of America at Warren, and has been an officer in the organization for the past three years. Sarah said FBLA is an organization that aims to instill confidence in high school students and give them opportunities for leadership roles, community service projects and social events.

Through FBLA, Sarah has traveled to state and national competitions for projects she has completed.

One of the most rewarding community service projects for Sarah was the "Concert for Life" event. Sarah, along with other FBLA members, planned an evening filled with music, fun and prizes to benefit the American Cancer Society. During her sophomore year, Warren's FBLA team won second place in the state for the Concert for Life project and ninth in the nation.

Sue Walker, a business education teacher and the FBLA advisor, said she has enjoyed working with Sarah for the past three years. "I've been very fortunate to watch her leadership skills grow and to watch her blossom into a wonderful young woman," Walker said. "She has a great deal of passion for everything she does." Walker said Sarah was instrumental in making the Concert for Life benefit a success.

"This year, we raised $10,000 and that was a key thing," Walker said. "She's the president of our chapter and there's about 600 kids in the chapter. She runs the meetings and coordinates activities, so she takes on a lot of responsibility."

Walker said Sarah's self confidence will help her along in life.

"We've got a lot of great kids, and Sarah's definitely one of them," Walker said. "She's a good role model for our students."

In addition to FBLA, Sarah is a member of the National Honor Society, is involved in Warren's concert choir, has played golf, softball, volleyball and basketball, and was in Warren's spring musical.

Sarah's involvement in the choir probably has the most significance in her life. In the fall, Sarah will attend the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbanaas a vocal performance major. Sarah also sings at her church, St. Paul the Apostle, in the choir. Last year, Sarah was chosen to sing the National Anthem at the FBLA national competition.

Sarah said she hopes to go into opera or music production in the future.

In addition to her love of music, Sarah enjoys writing as well.

'I write a lot of poetry and I've started writing a novel," Sarah said. "I plan to finish it-it might take a couple of years though."

Sarah's novel is about a girl trying to find herself, which she says is loosely based on her life. Her love of writing also crosses over into her passion for music. Sarah also writes song lyrics. "I have tons and tons of lyrics without any tunes," Sarah said. "I'm hoping I'll learn how to play the piano through some composition classes at school though." Between FBLA, writing a novel, writing songs, competing in several choir events throughout the school year and several other activities, Sarah is able to maintain phenomenal grades.

Sarah is ranked 28th in her class and has a 4.33 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, which is possible through honors and advanced placement classes.

Sarah said her brother Chris, who is four years older than her, has been one of the most influential people in her life.

"I basically followed his path through high school," Sarah said. "He never did drugs or alcohol and he was a pretty popular guy. I was too young to notice then, but now that I'm in high school I see that that's such an accomplishment."

Sarah's brother was involved in FBLA in high school and he now attends the University of Illinois, where Sarah is heading in the fall.

Sarah most prides herself on being morally strong during a time when so many fall through bands will carry on where he leaves off with the Annual Rock for Cancer Show. Vanderwall expects to bring in over $1,000 as a broader range audience has been invited to attend.

"It started last year," he said. "The honor society had been raising a lot of money for cancer research. We were offered a couple of 'standard' things to do for fund raisers, or we were told we could come up with our own ideas. This is what we did."

Kemp became involved in both the Freshman Advisory Panel and as a peer mentor through participation in a program her freshman and sophomore years that essentially trained her to step up for the underclassmen in her junior and senior years.

"Peer mentors help to counsel other students with issues or problems that they have dealt with in their lives," she said. "It doesn't come up too often, but I enjoy helping when lcan."

Kemp explained the Freshmen Advisory Panel is busy for six weeks in the middle of first quarter.

"This is something I did just as a senior," she said. "You break off into small groups and teach freshmen study halls for that period. You teach about peer pressure and how to deal with it."

Vanderwall said his involvement with baseball has been among the most fulfilling aspects of high school, while Kemp said she treasures her time as reporter for JILG.

"I got to meet so many people who I would not have had the chance to if it weren't for being a reporter," said Kemp. "It's been incredible."

Kemp and Vanderwall share the same impression of what has most changed in their lives from the beginning of high school until now.

Vanderwall said, "The last four years have flown by. The biggest change I've seen in myself is that I'm more responsible now and more dedicated to my work."

Kemp concurred, "Becoming more responsible is the biggest change I've made. I've always done the things I needed to do, but now I do them with more enthusiasm."

They see their successes as being attributable to being well rounded, even if that isn't always immediately apparent.

"People tend to see one little outlet of your personality and think 'that's it," said Kemp. "There is so much more to it, though."

Vanderwall advised it's important for students of all ages to be true to themselves.

"Don't worry about what anyone says," he said. "By the time you're an upperclassman, everyone accepts you for who you are. I'm hardworking, but I do take time to do some things for myself and have fun."

In closing, Kemp offered one final bit of advice for younger students. "Listen to the adults in your life. They really do know the right thing to do and do have your best interest," she said.

without her. She's been in remission for four years now."

Through his family's involvement at St. Joseph's Church in Libertyville, Timony did some required public service at an area PADS shelter. When it was no longer required, he and his mother worked some shifts at the shel-

'Now I go with my girlfriend and we help out once every few months," he said.

Timony credits LHS soccer coach Scott Schinto's hard workouts for teaching him how to inspire others. "We ran all these hills, up and down and back up, in lap form, at the Old School Forest Preserve.

"Coach Schinto just had a way of motivating us to do those things; he'd use stories and quotations from people. Some (players) didn't care and may have thought it was bogus, but he sort of got to me, and got me to do my best and never settle for anything else."

Student government was another challenge for Timony. After his freshman year, he ran for student council representative, for the sophomore class and won.

The slender kid with blue eyes, "dirty blond" hair and a winning smile was starting to reach his stride as a leader.

Guidance counselor Janet Webber said Timony, since his sophomore year, "has blossomed as a leader. I remember him back then, as a sophomore," she said, "and I would characterize him as quiet, a nice guy."

"He's not quiet now, and I would say that during his junior year, he developed into this leader. He would go above and beyond to get others to get on board, like with the food drive, and they'd have fun doing it."

His junior year, the student body raised 56,000 items of food, a state record. This school year, LHS boxed up over 74,000 items in front of the school, before trucks arrived to rush them to area food pantries. It was LHS'

Webber doesn't think Timony has identified himself with one particular group of LHS students. "Being approachable is absolutely one of Kevin's strengths. He's not part of any clique; he relates well to all students."

'Kevin has a sense of humor and is so personable. He's dynamic and he's really charming. He's one of the wonderful, outstanding students who have truly made a difference here at the high school," she added.

Timony's love of a diverse group of people led him to accept an opening next fall at Loyola University in Chicago. "The main reason is because it's in the city and ever since I was little (until the fifth grade, the Timonys lived in New Jersey) we'd go into New York City."

Binder, more the "type A" of the two, is highly organized, with "Binder's binder," a notebook filled with organizational notes, keeping her — and her peers — on track.

Bisevac, more of a laid-back "type B" personality, is most effective as a communicator, who can, apparently, charm people into doing more than they expected.

Bisevac is usually the one who is casual about time, while Binder is the punctual one.

Bisevac

One morning, things were a little different, however.

"I got to the student council meeting before Shannon," Bisevac recalled. "She was not there, and we didn't know what to do. We were waiting for her to take attendance."

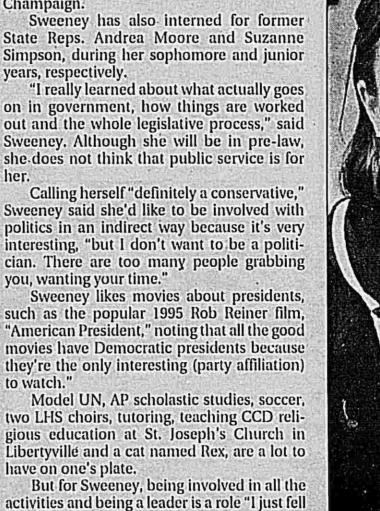

Although Bisevac noted, "I suppose we could have passed a sheet around," it was apparent the group trusted Binder to keep things in order.

Binder and Bisevac embrace their differences as they support and encourage each other.

"It's not competitive with Shannon," said Bisevac, "I might think of something and she'll elaborate. She says something and I add to it."

Although the two must prepare for the inevitable separation as they move on to college, both know they will be lifelong friends. More important, they are leaving something of themselves behind. "I stress to the kids that they will have personal achievements, but what I think they want to do is leave behind a legacy," said Chierico. "That is what Shannon and Adrijana have done. They have set new standards."

Janet Webber, an LHS guidance counselor for over 20 years, said one special impression she has of Sweeney, besides being a "takecharge person" and "always looking for what needs to be done," is that the precocious teenager "always challenges herself academicalschool and the community, and now I want to show it in my country."

She added she would like to have a career in legal services and maybe even become a lawyer. "I want to be able to give back to the community," said Marrufo.

The future member of the few, the proud, the Marines, has a unique outlook on life and some advice for younger students.

"A lot of people don't take life with the beauty that is in it. I think people need to appreciate it more and not be so stressful. They need to be creative and outgoing because it's going to help them out in the long run. It's all about being happy, and if you are happy you are successful."

Besides crediting her parents with having a positive influence on her life, Marrufo also said teachers Mr. Barry Gurvey, Mr. Kenneth Filas, Mr. Ron Sapochak, and school social worker Kathy Myers are people who have encouraged her to be the best she can be.

Marrufo also has a lot of respect for Mrs. Debbie Lampi, the mother of former Round Lake High School star athlete Mike Lampi, who died after suffering injuries in a high school football game.

"Mrs. Lampi has been there for us through a lot of stuff. She is like a second mother to me. She has given so much back to the schools, and she has even donated money for us," said Marrufo.

"I think that is why kids here are so well-rounded. We are so diverse and deal with a lot of pressure. And now with Mike Lampi, we have dealt with death and are learning to deal with obstacles that we will face in the future," said Marrufo, as tears streamed down her face.

Mrs. Lampi was contacted for a few comments on Marrufo.

"lanet loves life and is extremely personable. She is definitely a person who is going places. I can see her as a mayor of a town, or whatever she sets her mind to be."

Marrufo

" Jim, too, is a leader on and off the baseball field or basketball court. He is a great role model, and he is very respectful to all of the administration and the adults that work for the district. Not only do they both excel academically, but they excel at extra-curricular activities. We have been very fortunate to have both of them in our student body and representing District 116 throughout Lake County," added Dr. Davis.

"They are the epitome of the Panther Pride that is so often talked about in this community. However, Janet and Jimbo not only talk the talk but they walk the walk... In the 11 years I have been here, I can safely say that no two other students are more exemplary of that Panther Pride and good character that we are counting on in our youth. They are the true reasons we teach and we lead in our schools. I am very proud to be their superintendent. I know many members of the school board who have had contact with them will agree," concluded Dr. Davis.

Nicoline, a member of the National Honor Society, for his part, doesn't talk much about himself.

"I'll probably go to CLC for my first two years and see how it goes," said Nicoline, "I want to be an accountant. Math has always been my easiest subject."

Nicoline credits both of his parents and a number of teachers, including Mr. Sapochak as having a positive influence on his

The future accountant also had some praise for his school.

"I would recommend students to come to Round Lake High School. The teachers are good and treat us students real well. I received a real good education here."

Nicoline also had some advice to pass on to the younger students.

"Work hard in school because a good education will mean better jobs and a brighter future."

Nicoline said he still misses his friend Mike Lampi and is happy that some of the students still go over and visit Mrs. Lampi.

"You know, she still comes to our baseball games," said Nicoline, with a

"I admire my brother for not giving up, working hard through school to become a great athlete," Plucinski said.

Even though she is excited about college, Plucinski is not ready to leave high school. Her friends mean a great deal to her and she will miss all the activities that have contributed to who

"My family is a big support group," Janosch said.

He also had a lot of support from inside the school-teachers, staff and fellow students.

"For a school with so many people, one may think teachers are preoccupied or don't know you; but I feel like I am the only one the teachers care about when I have a question or issue," Janosch said. "Teachers you may not know will acknowledge and praise you."

With all the time he spends volunteering and with extracurricular activities, he still manages to enjoy life.

When he is hungry, he runs by Arby's, hoping they are running their five roast beef sandwiches for $5.95.

"I love Arby's; it was sent from God," Janosch said.

Janosch doesn't watch much television, but during late night reruns he likes to catch "The Simpsons" and "That '70s Show."

Of course, Janosch makes time for sports. His favorite teams are the Duke Blue Devils and the Green Bay Packers.

"Since we beat the Bears most of the time, it is easier to be a Packers fan in Chicago," Janosch said.

Janosch has one thing he must do before he dies, attend a Devils' game at Cameron indoor stadium. Looking into the future, Janosch aspires to work for ESPN, which he considers to be his cond family. "It would be the pinnacle of sports journalism," Janosch said. Janosch considers himself one to deeply care about other people. He also says he opens up to people so he makes friends quickly.

"Even after knowing someone for five minutes, I feel like I have to look out for their well being," Janosch said.

Janosch has not missed a day of school since he had the chicken pox virus for four days in third grade.

Janosch's parents say he isn't only a good student and active in the community, but he is a great kid.

"The term well-rounded defines him perfectly," said Maureen, mom, and a marketing manager at Oneac.

Janosch is hoping to make a difference in the world. "I am in a huge graduating class where every kid is different and can contribute in a positive way to have an impact on society," Janosch said. Janosch will attend the Indiana University in the fall.

He is planning on being very involved and expanding his curiosities.

'We will miss him next year," Maureen said. "He is a fun and witty kid."

thing else."

Even with all of his extracurricular activities, Dan is able to maintain a stellar academic record. He is ranked 27th in his class and has a 4.32 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, which is made possible by Dan taking advanced placement classes.

Dan said attending Warren has made it easy for him to be involved in so many activi-

"Warren has some of the best students around and it's so easy to get them to come together," Dan said. "Warren has so many teachers that really care about what happens to students too. Warren might not be the best academically, but overall it's the best as far as the whole experience of high school."

After he leaves Warren, Dan said his community involvement will not fade once he begins at Tufts. Dan is already planning on participating in a pre-orientation activity at the university. Dan will go to Boston the week before he is due to begin his college career and work in homeless shelters and various other community service avenues in the city.

Dan said he is also looking forward to finding new extracurricular activities to participate in at college. "If I wasn't involved in things, I don't know what I'd do with my life," Dan said.

MILEWSKI

"I have strong beliefs and morals and I'm proud to say I went through high school and never drank or did any drugs," Sarah said. "I've always tried to choose a good quality of people to hang out with, and that's the one thing I hope other people will do in high school when they get there."

 Nancy Marian, who works with Sarah through Healthy Communities-Healthy Youth, an organization that partners with FBLA, said Sarah is "gifted."

"I know Sarah's a very hard worker," Marian said. "She's bubbly and energetic and works very hard at everything she does."

Sarah said her high school experience has been enriched by those she has come to know during her years at Warren.

"I've had so many inspirational teachers, they're all so encouraging," Sarah said.

Sarah said although she has enjoyed her years at Warren, she is ready to move on.

"High school has been difficult because I've always had to be in so many different places at once, Sarah said. "I'm looking forward to the independence of college. I am sad to leave the memories of Warren behind, but I know there's going to be a lot more ahead of me."
